WALSH ASKS FOR $50,000 TO EQUIP TROOPS OF STATE

Secret orders to recruit to their full war strength the thirteen branches of the Massachusetts Militia are in the possession of every commanding officer today.

Ten thousand troops will be held in instant readiness to be thrown into the field as a result of this move, the moment Washington wires its looked-for call to arms. This call is expected hourly.

The officials in charge of this movement, which is being conducted as quietly as possible at the request of the War Department itself, are confident that this call will issue in less than twenty-four hours.

Colonel Hawthorn, commanding the artillery district of Boston, had a long conference with Mayor Curley at City

ATTACK AMERICANS; TRAMPLE ON U. S. FLAG

By N. A. JENNINGS.

(Manager of the Mexico City Bureau of the American.)

(Mr. Jennings left Mexico City for Vera Cruz when it became certain that hostilities would break out. He went to the coast in order to put on the cable there a true account of conditions at the capital, which he was unable to send from Mexico City because of the government censorship. This is the first extended story received by any press association as to the actual conditions in Mexico City.)

VERA CRUZ, April 24.—The American flag has been trampled on by mobs in the City of Mexico. American citizens are being insulted. The police look on listlessly while rioting students and Mexicans of the lower classes shriek "Death to the Yankees. Death to the Gringoes." Some of the police even join in the shouts.

Conditions are steadily growing worse since the occupation of Vera Cruz. Newspapers are inflaming the people by the publica-

WAR BULLETINS:

WASHINGTON, April 24—The American embassy at Mexico City is reported to have been burned. The report is generally believed because of the hostile acts known to have been committed by mobs against Americans.

It is feared a number of Americans have been murdered.

MEXICO CITY, April 24.—The stoning of Americans was repeated today when Huerta reiterated his refusal to accede to the demands of the United States. The General's statement was received with cheers and rioting broke loose. The houses of several American residents were made the targets of assaults with clubs and bricks. Several Americans are reported to have been injured. Peons are shouting: "Down with the Yankee dogs!"

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 24.—The monitor Cheyenne is rushing down the Pacific Coast today under forced draft to rescue Americans at Ensenada, lower California, who have been attacked and forced to take refuge in the United States consulate. A wireless call for help picked up on the coast last night stated that the consulate was bein gstormed by Mexican Federal soldiers. Consul Guiyant reported that at the first sign of an outbreak he had summoned all Americans to his headquarters to be under the protection of the United States flag. An unconfirmed report says several Americans have been killed.

GALVESTON, TEX., APRIL 24.—BRIGADIER-GENERAL FUNSTON ISSUED AN ORDER AT 11 A. M. FOR THE FOUR ARMY TRANSPORTS CARRYING THE FIFTH BRIGADE TO MEXICO TO SAIL AT 5 O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON. ARTILLERY NOT ON BOARD BY THAT TIME WILL FOLLOW ON MERCHANT STEAMERS CHARTERED BY THE GOVERNMENT.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—With the dispatch of the army detachments to Vera Cruz and the border, the administration has decided not to take any further aggressive steps against Mexico for at least seventy-two hours, unless driven to do so by Huerta or Carranza. This course was determined by the President and his advisers for two reasons.

First, to give Americans in the interior of Mexico time to get out of the country.

Second, to give the United States military forces ordered to Vera Cruz and the border ample time to reach their destinations.

THE WEATHER.

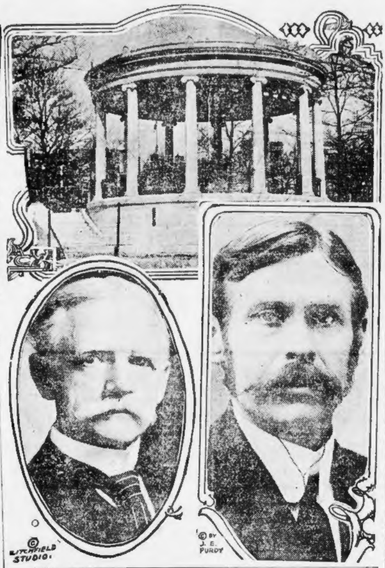
Go to tonight's big meeting on Boston Common. Patriotic songs. Rousing speeches. Time, 8 p.m. Place, bandstand.

DEMAND FACTS OF OUTRAGES IN MEXICO

WASHINGTON, April 24.—As soon as the government received the dispatches today stating that the United States embassy at the Mexican capital had been burned and a number of Americans possibly murdered, a dispatch was sent to Senor de Oliveira, the Brazilian minister to Mexico City, asking him to send any information in his possession. The Brazilian envoy now represents the United States.

BOSTONIANS TO PLEDGE LOYALTY AT MASS MEETING

Parkman bandstand, where patriotic meeting will be held tonight, and some of those who take part. From left to right at the top are: Judge Leveroni, Mayor Curley, the bandstand, District Attorney Pelletier, Mme. Calvert, who leads the singing of patriotic songs; below: Samuel J. Elder and Judge Robert O. Harris, who will preside.



COMMON TO RING WITH CHEERS FOR THE FLAG

A great public meeting, to demonstrate to the whole nation that Boston is again first in loyal support of the governmnt in time of war will be held tonight on historic Boston Common, at the Parkman Memorial bandstand.

This country is at war. Those in authority on whom devolve the great responsibility of carrying on this struggle must receive from Boston the loyal support and encouragement which Boston has always been first to offer. The opportunity to display this patriotism is offered the people of Boston at this monster mass meeting.

Throughout the country there are socialistic societies and anarchistic associations whose leaders are raising cries against the government, against the flag, to uphold which American blood has already been shed at Vera Cruz.

It is Boston's duty, the duty of every loyal Bostonian, to show his faith in the government, his love for the flag, by gathering on the Common, at 8 o'clock tonight, and joining in a great patriotic demonstration.

Rousing speeches will be made by the city's most stirring orators. A band of musicians will play all the national hymns and war songs. Come ready to join in a great chorus that will ring through the city and send its echoes throughout the country.

Mayor Curley offers, as the most appropriate place for Boston's loyal citizens to express their approval of the government's action, the Boston Common. He has given the use of the Parkman Memorial Bandstand, which stands in the shadow of a monument to the dead heroes of the Civil War, soldiers and sailors.

RALLY TO FLAG.

The Mayor is most enthusiastic about such a demonstration. "The United States is in a state of war," he said. "It is a conflict which may last for a long time, which may lead to complications which the most far-sighted of us cannot foresee. Now, certainly, is the most fitting time for every man to come forward in support of that flag which has been insulted and in endorsement of those on whose shoulders rests the responsibility of carrying on this war to insure our flag against further insult.

"It is particularly fitting that Boston should take the lead in a patriotic ceremony of this sort. This city has been selected as the meeting place for a convention of Industrial Workers of the World. Speakers of this organization have been openly disparaging our flag, and calumniating our President. Boston must show these people and the members of other societies that the flag must be honored, the government upheld."

Mayor Curley will be one of the leading speakers tonight. As Congressman he was in close touch with the plans of the government in the long period of impending trouble with Mexico which has finally developed into war. No one is better fitted to explain these plans than the Mayor. No one is keener to place Boston in the front rank of patriotism than Boston's Mayor.

Governor Walsh has been invited to represent the Commonwealth, to tell what steps the State has taken for active support of the government, and what plans are being made to give loyal Massachusetts its chance to be represented at the front, to bear its share of the defence of the flag.

JUDGE HARRIS PRESIDES.

Judge Robert O. Harris, also until recently a member of Congress, the scion of an old Boston family, noted for its jurists and statesmen, and always first in offering up its sons on the altar of patriotism, will preside at the mass meeting.

When this country, shocked by the atrocities of the Spanish rule in Cuba, was stirred into aggressive action by the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana Harbor, Boston was the first city to register its loyal endorsement of the action of the government in declaring war. In North Square, where the Boston men gathered to prepare for the famous Tea Party, a flag raising was held, in the first days after the opening of hostilities on Spain.

The master of ceremonies at this demonstration was Judge Frank Leveroni. The flag raising was the first in the country. That method of showing loyalty to the government, devotion to the Stars and Stripes, was immediately adopted all over the United States. But Boston was, as always, first.

Judge Leveroni, one of Boston's most ardent patriots, will speak tonight. His address will be one of the interesting features of the program.

When the AMERICAN suggested that Bostonians unite in a tremendous expression of patriotism, its suggestion was received nowhere more heartily than by the veterans of the great Civil War who now form the rapidly-thinning ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The Department Commander of the Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R., John M. Woods, former Mayor of Somerville, will tell why the hardships of war are worth while in defence of the nation's honor.

With him on the platform will be Past Commander John E. Gilman, who served through the Rebellion with distinction. Both of these men, heroes of the nation's greatest war, will give lessons in true patriotism. With them, also representing the Grand Army, will be Senior Vice-Commander A. H. Knowles, of the Department of Massachusetts, G. A. R., and Edward O. Skelton, Past Commander.

Representing the Sons of Veterans, Frank J. Donahue, Department Commander and Secretary of State, will speak. He will describe the sacrifices made by the women of the country in the Civil War.

LEADS PATRIOTIC SONGS.

To lead the chorus singing of the national anthems, Mme. Wilhelmina Wright Calvert, of country-wide reputation as a singer, will be on the bandstand. Mme. Calvert's voice, lifted in patriotic hymns and battle songs, will stir the most sluggish blood.

Mme. Calvert has been the soloist at the Tremont Temple for years. She has taken part in Boston's greatest concerts. It has been said of her that her "Star Spangled Banner" cannot be equalled, at an open-air concert, or in a theatre.

No more inspiring ceremony can be imagined than the recital of the ritualistic toast of the Elks, "The Flag." Daniel J. Kane, Past Exalted Ruler of the Boston Lodge of Elks, will recite this ritual.

District Attorney Pelletier will be a leader in the expression of Boston's approval of the administration at Washington. The Rev. Alan Hudson, for many years chaplain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, will represent the clergy. Chaplain Hudson can tell of the heroism of those ministers of the Gospel, advocates of peace, who waded through the blood of their comrades to bring consolation to the dying on the battlefield.

Massachusetts has always been first to leap to the nation's defence, and in Massachusetts, Boston has always shown the way.

The AMERICAN calls on every person in Boston to come to the Common tonight, at 8 o'clock. Come, ready to sing in chorus, "The Star Spangled Banner," "My Country 'Tis of Thee," "Rally Round the Flag," and all the other battle hymns which every loyal American has learned in earliest childhood.

LEADERS PRAISE PLAN.

From every side the plan suggested by the AMERICAN has met with hearty approval. Former Governor Curtis Guild, until recently the nation's representative at St. Petersburg, declares that no better plan could be found for awakening the patriotism for which this city has always been noted.

"The idea meets my hearty approval," he said. "The authorities in Washington need right now expressions of approval and support from the people. In a gathering of this sort, it will be possible to place on record the people of Boston in a great demonstration of loyalty and patriotism."

Herbert Parker, former Attorney-General of Massachusetts, said: "Now is certainly the time for one and all to show, just as earnestly as possible, a devotion to the flag, and an endorsement of the action of the government."

Attorney Sherman L. Whipple declared that what is needed now is a spontaneous demonstartion of patriotism from the people. The plan arranged by the AMERICAN, he thinks is just such an expression.

Former Governor John L. Bates, over the telephone from his Summer home in Gloucester, also expressed his hearty approval of a great movement of the people of Boston to show that its patriotism is as keen as it has been in national crises.

SOCIETY WOMAN MAY BE COLONEL OF VOLUNTEERS

NEWPORT, April 24.—Mrs. James J. Brown, a former Denver woman, prominent in Newport society for two seasons, may be the first woman to hold the position of colonel of United States Volunteers.

She has been offered, in a telegram from Miss Mildred Morris of the Rocky Mountain News, command of a regiment of Colorado women now being raised in Mexico. The Colorado women declare that as they have the vote there is no reason why they should not contribute to the defence of their country.

Mrs. Brown has not made her decision as to the offer, for she has already offered her services as a Red Cross nurse. She believes, however, that the plan offers to women a great opportunity to show that they are the equal of men in every respect.

If the Federal government will not accept the services of theregiment of women, they plan to go to the front as Red Cross nurses. It is expected that if they are permitted to go as a part of the government's fighting force, a cavalry regiment will be formed, for most of the Colorado women are excellent horsewomen. Many of them have medals for marksmanship.

MISS YOUNG TO WED FIRST LOVE; JILTED HALL

CHICAGO, April 24.—A story of a criss-cross romance, in its wake a broken heart, innumerable wedding presents which were delivered before an invitation was recalled and, of course, two persons, "the happiest on earth," have come to light as the aftermath of the broken engagement of Miss Alice Young to Roland Francis Hall of Worcester, Mass.

Miss Young is the daughter of General Edward Clinton Young, I. N. C., of Beverly Hills.

Miss Young is to marry Hurlburt Leslie Baumgardner, vice president and sales manager of the Holland Core Oil Company. He is a suitor of former days.

The revival of the romance between Miss Young and Mr. Baumgardner came shortly after the announcement that her wedding to Mr. Hall of Massachusetts would not take place. That wedding had been set for April 15. Mr. Hall was in Chicago prepared to marry and take his bride back to Worcester.

HARVARD MAN TELLS OF FIGHT AT VERA CRUZ

Mrs. S. C. Tozzer of Nahant street, Lynn, has received a telegram from her son, Dr. Alfred Marston Tozzer, at Vera Cruz, stating that he and his wife was safe after thrilling experiences during the capture of the Mexican port by the American marines. Dr. Tozzer is an instructor of anthropology at Harvard.

With his bride, who is a New York girl, Dr. Tozzer was stopping at the Diligencia Hotel in Vera Cruz. Other Americans in the hotel were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Ryder and Mrs. Charles H. Hudson, wife of the vice-president of the Mexican Central Railway line. Other guests included American men and women refugees from Mexico City.

In the fighting which followed the landing of the marines, the Diligencia Hotel became the centre of a fierce battle. In the upper rooms a number of Mexican troopers had taken refuge and fired from the windows down on the advancing marines.

The hotel walls were riddled with bullets. Shells from the Prairie shrieked overhead.

Ensigns Townsend and Badger led the marines into the hotel. They broke down the doors and the two ensigns led in a hand to hand fight through the rooms and corridors. The quarters finally became too close for firing and finally Mexicans and Americans grasped their guns by the barrels and clubbed each other. The Mexicans were captured or put to utter rout.

Dr. and Mrs. Tozzer and the other guests, by great good luck, escaped unhurt. Dr. Tozzer has made researches in Mexico and Central America in his studies of ancient civilizations. A valuable collection of Aztec and other relics secured by him is at the Harvard Museum.

Medals and Gold for Cunard Heroes of Volturno Rescue

Captain Barr, Chief Officer A. J. McClellan and nine members of the crew of the Cunard liner Carmania, the biggest vessel that ever came into Boston Harbor, were rewarded today for their part in the rescue of persons from the burning Russian steamship Volturno in mid-ocean last Fall.

Captain Barr received a gold medal, McClellan a silver medal and each of the nine others $10 in gold. The presentations were made on the dock at East Boston by Chairman Hugh Bancroft of the Boston Port Directors.

MRS. SUSIE M. WAKEFIELD and Cyrus Wakefield, of Wakefield, from whom she was divorced today, her suit being allowed in East Cambridge court.

DIVORCE IS GIVEN MRS. WAKEFIELD

Mrs. Susie M. Wakefield of Wakefield was today granted a divorce from Cyrus Wakefield by Judge Hall in East Cambridge. They are to divide the custody of their child, and the alimony is secret.

The case has attracted wide attention. Mrs. Wakefield brought suit on the grounds of drunkenness. A cross libel was filed. This was today dismissed and the case became uncontested.

As the first witness, Senator Fred Hilton of Framingham told of a collision between his automobile and one driven by Wakefield when, he said, Wakefield was intoxicated. Then Mrs. Wakefield, beautiful and handsomely gowned, took the stand.

"My husband used to come home drunk many times a week—often bringing friends," she testified. "We used to go on motor trips together, when he would stop at every saloon in every town.

"There were poker parties at our home and dinners, when he became very drunk."

Of twelve witnesses, only six were called and the divorce was granted.

Mayor of Beverly Drops Patrolman

He declared he would fight removal and has retained the law firm of Fisk Brothers of Lynn to look after his interests.

Report Kaiser Disapproves of U. S. Intervention

PARIS, April 24.—The German Emperor disapproves President Wilson's new Mexican policy of intervention, according to a Berlin telegram published in a Paris paper.

The Kaiser met American Naval Attache Captain Gherardi at a court reception the other day and pointedly criticised the course pursued in Wilson's policy toward Mexico.

[The AMERICAN doubts the accuracy of the above cable from Paris because the German Emperor has been on the island of Korfu for the last three weeks, and when he left Berlin intervention was not thought of.—News Editor.]

TROOPS MUTINY IN BIG COLORADO MINE STRIKE

DENVER, Colo., April 24.—Company G of the State militia at Cripple Creek mutinied eoday and refused to go on strike duty in the coal fields.

Fighting broke out again between troops and miners near Lyon in the Southern Colorado fields. One thousand miners and 350 troops clashed at that point.

Desultory firing and long range fighting between soldiers and armed miners were reported from Rouse and other points in the war zone during the night.

A reign of terror exists. With nearly thirty dead in the week of fighting and $1,000,000 property loss the final toll in human lives and loss to property cannot be forseen.

Eight great coal properties have been burned by the strikers.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Take this in liquid or tablet form as a tonic and regulator!

Mrs. Kate D. Richardson, of Beazley, Essex Co., Va., says, "I esteem it a pleasure to testify to the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For some years I suffered greatly with weakness peculiar to my sex. I was treated by several physicians but gradually grew worse. One of my friends told me of the good results of your "Favorite Prescription." I went to the drug store and got a bottle, and after taking it, with the "Pleasant Pellets," I commenced to get better. I never knew what happiness was, for I was always sick and complaining and made others as well as myself unhappy. So you see what a debt I owe you!"

U .S. TROOPS READY FOR BATTLE AT VERA CRUZ

MEXICANS TO FIGHT INVADERS

By A. M. JAMIESON.

Special Staff Correspondent of the Boston American with the Atlantic Fleet.

VERA CRUZ, April 24.—Machine guns, which were brought ashore from the United States war fleet during the night, were set up today and mounted at strategic points outside the city to prevent any attack by the 5,000 Federals who are reported to be encamped about twenty miles northwest of Vera Cruz.

The forces under Captain Edwin A. Anderson of the New Hampshire, which are guarding the southern outskirts, and the marines and sailors under Colonel John A. LeJeune, who are guarding the western approaches, were strengthened.

Outposts have been established by the American forces of 6,000 men on roads leading into the city from the northwest, and vigilant watch is kept upon these highlands by sentries. Throughout the night the searchlights of the men of war constantly swept the sandy levels stretching westward from the city proper.

RIGID HEALTH MEASURES.

The work of cleaning up the city is being rushed at the express orders of Rear Admiral Fletcher, who fears an outbreak of disease unless strict sanitary measures are adopted. The Mexican dead are being buried in the Vera Cruz Cemetery or burned along Guerrero street. The corpses that have been buried were unclaimed. The funerals in Vera Cruz cemetery were conducted by relatives or friends of the Mexicans who fell while resisting the advance of the forces of occupation.

Among the dead are a number of Catholic friars, who turned from the sanctuary of their churches to fight the invaders. Armed with rifles a number of the friars attached to the old parochial church, La Parroquia, ascended to the belfry of this historic pile and from this point of vantage fired upon the Americans.

The fighting friars were finally dislodged by a detachment of marines under Ensign Townsend. With automatic pistols in their hands the marines stormed the building, their quick-firing weapons spurting a continuous stream of lead.

Those of the friars left alive conducted the funeral services for the Mexican dead today and the solemn chant of the funeral services was heard in many an adobe hut where the thick incense mingled with the odor of flowers.

REFUGEES ARRIVE.

A refugee train arrived early today from Mexico City, and those on board had thrilling stories to tell about conditions in the capital and their journey over the long ride to this port.

The seriousness of the situation at Tampico is increasing as a result of the junction of the Federals and Constitutionalists at that point. As a result of wireless reports detailing conditions there Admiral Christopher Craddock, commander of the British squadron, ordered British Consul Hutchinson to proceed to Tampico forthwith to look after British lives and property interests at that point.

Practically all of the Americans, Britons and Germans at that point have gone on board warships or merchantmen.

A number of Mexicans were arrested during the forenoon for firing upon Red Cross workers, who were picking up bodies in the streets or caring for the wounded. The report was circulated with the evident intention of turning the populace against the Americans that a number of these prisoners had been executed. Captain Huse, chief of staff to Rear Admiral Fletcher, denied that any prisoners had been put to death.

"It is not true that any Mexican prisoners have been executed," said he, "but you may credit the chief of staff as saying that we may have to come to that if these people continue to murder our men."

TRAMPLE ON U. S. FLAG.

Refugees from Mexico City went to the United States consulate where they related exciting stories to Consul Canada. They brought the report that the American flag had been torn down and trampled upon in the streets of the capital.

They also said that Nelson O'Shaughnessy and his family had disappeared and were said to have gone to Manzanillo on the west coast. The only warship known to be at that port is the Japanese cruiser Idzumo, which has been lying there for several months.

A number of Americans were insulted in the streets and had their lives threatened, said the refugees. The better class of Mexican citizens in the capital, however, remained calm and took no part in these demonstrations. They were mostly carried on by students and clerks and natives of low caste, whose sudden patriotism had been inspired by deep potations of liquor.

There was a hostile demonstration before the United States embassy but the presence of Federal soldiers there prevented any actual attack. A number of students of the military academy, mere boys, gathered before the National Palace and cheered for Huerta.

American stores have been closed and the few Americans remaining have been advised to remain indoors. They have barricaded their homes and laid in supplies of food and munitions as though for a siege.

HUNT FOR "SNIPERS."

Admiral Badger today has nearly 6,000 sailors and marines on shore. They are divided into squads each with a separate task. Some are cleaning up the city, others are acting as guards and sentries while others are continuing the house to house search for hidden "snipers" and secreted war munitions. The work of this last-named squad is about completed.

One problem that has given the naval authorities much worry is that of securing a supply of good drinking water. When the forces were landed the sailors and marines were instructed not to drink the public water supply for fear it had been poisoned. An expeditionary force left at daybreak for the public water works to guard it and to make sure that it is kept in working order.

The city continued quiet throughout the night, but vigilant police precautions of the American naval authorities were no whit relaxed. As a result of the accidental killing of a marine by a sailor sentinel, the commanders issued strict orders to the sentries that under no circumstances must they fire upon any one in the darkness until three challenges had been given. Failure to obey this rule it was said would result in severe punishment.

Fortifications are being erected among the sand dunes southwest and northwest of the city. Trenches and rifle pits are being dug and barricades of logs and bags filled with sand are being erected. Several stores which had been closed since Tuesday afternoon opened their doors today and this relieved to some extent the food shortage. However, many hundreds are still in want, and even if the stores were open they would not be able to pay the exorbitant war prices.

The Americans now have about 1,000 Mexican prisoners on their hands. The gunboat Progreso, which came into the harbor not knowing that Vera Cruz had been captured by the United States army forces, was taken without resistance. As soon as the captain saw the enormous fifteen-inch guns, any one of which could have blown the Progreso to bits with a single shell, he realized the futility of pitting his puny six-pounders against the war machinery in the dreadnaughts.

Reconnoitring of the railway lines between this city and Mexico City has begun, a party of marines under Major Smedley Butler, going out to make an inspection of the bridges. A detachment of these marines were left near the Interoceanic railway bridges a few miles west of the city to prevent it from being blown up by rebels or guerrillas.

Two of the wounded American officers, Lieutenant J. F. Lannon of the New Hampshire and Ensign P. A. Stevens of the Minnesota, are in serious condition. Both were shot through the chest.

FEAR HUERTA REVOLT.

An operator who talked with another in Mexico City early in the morning said that anti-Huerta manifestations had occurred there and that some of Huerta's friends feared an uprising in the capital.

Crowds marched through the streets of Mexico City demanding the resignation of Huerta.

Lieutenant Commander Buchanan, who has charge of the marines doing police duty, ordered the saloons closed as much of the trouble arose from drink.

SULPHUR IS THE ONLY THING FOR ITCHING ECZEMA

Use Like Cold Cream to Subdue Irritation and Clear the Skin.

In the treatment of the various forms of disfiguring, itching and burning Eczema such as Acne, Ringworm, Salt Rheum, there is nothing known that can take the place of bold-sulphur cream.

It effects such prompt relief, even in the aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For years bold-sulphur has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties. Bold-sulphur is not only parasiticidal, but antipruritic and antiseptic, therefore invaluable in overcoming irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet in every instance it instantly stops the agonizing itching; subdues the irritation and heals the inflamed, raw skin right up and it is often years later before any eczema eruption again appears.

Those troubled should obtain from any good pharmacist an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and apply it directly upon the abrasion like an ordinary cold cream. It isn't unpleasant and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome.

This is published for Walter Luther Dodge Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

NEW FLAG INSULT IN MEXICO CITY

'DEATH TO GRINGOES,' CRY OF CAPITAL MOB

tion of the bitterest denunciation of the Americans. The mobs are permitted to parade the streets day and night singing the national anthem and calling for the death of citizens of the United States.

United States Arms Confiscated.

There were many women in the mobs, and in some instances their manifestations of hatred outrivalled those of the men.

The day before I left Mexico City I saw a big mob in San Francisco street with a large American flag. The flag was thrown in the mud and then the women walked upon it, shouting and singing. This was repeated again and again for blocks until the flag was unrecognizable.

When I left Mexico City the United States embassy was guarded by a squad of twenty Mexican police. There were then two machine guns in the embassy, 250 rifles and about 90,000 rounds of ammunition. Upon my arrival in Vera Cruz I learned that all had been confiscated by the Huerta government.

Captain Burnside, the military attache to the American embassy, had trained two young mechanics to man the machine guns and the rifles were to have been distributed among the Americans in the event of an anti-foreign uprising.

Mobs attacked the American club, smashing all the windows. They withdrew, muttering threats to return and burn the building. A mob attacked Porter's Hotel, breaking down the doors and smashing the windows. Fisk's big curio shop in Gante street was wrecked and a number of stores owned by Americans were attacked.

THREATEN HUERTA RULE.

I really believe that General Huerta desires to protect foreigners, especially Americans. He issued orders from the National Palace that no foreigner should be molested. This belief is based on an opinion current in Mexico City when I left there that the Constitutionalists would not join forces with the Federals. Thus in the event of an uprising in the capital Huerta would rely on the foreign colony to protect him.

Without the stain of foreign blood upon his hands the dictator would be in a better position to seek the protection of a foreign flag if insurrection would break out in the capital.

Anti-Huertista demonstrations had begun to occur in the suburbs at the time of my departure, indicating that the political foes of the dictator were preparing to take advantage of their present opportunity.

Placards were posted on the outskirts of the city read, "Death to the tyrant" and "Death to Huerta the traitor." The police went through the streets collecting all these cards and burning them.

The Mexicans of the better class will undoubtedly welcome intervention as the best means of obtaining relief from the chaos and armed turmoil which has existed for three years.

The news of the seizure of the war munitions from the American embassy in the capital did not come as a big surprise to me, for I had been told by a member of the embassy staff before my departure from Mexico City that Huerta had threatened to seize these arms if the United States took an aggressive or warlike step.

AMERICANS FLEE CITY.

All the Americans who can are getting out of the capital, for to remain there would be to court danger unnecessarily. Huerta is the only restraining force in Mexico City. He typifies the goverment and he alone is responsible for law and order. His assassination would throw the whole Federal district into a state of absolute anarchy, for there is no man strong enough to succeed him.

A peculiarity that I noticed about the Mexico City mobs was that a number of the men were in the uniform of the Federal army. Our train came through to Vera Cruz without a hitch. At many places along the line we saw groups of boyish peons, who had suddenly been transformed into soldiers. They were all awkward and many of them had never handled a gun before.

As soldiers in action they would be worthless.

BULLETINS

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Admiral Badger has ordered the first torpedo division at Galveston to proceed to Vera Cruz with the army transports, which are to leave soon with troops to reinforce the marines at Vera Cruz.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—A dispatch received by Secretary of Navy Daniels at 10:30 o'clock from Admiral Fletcher states that Vera Cruz is quiet. He says: "The train that is to meet Charge O'Shaughnessy is about to leave Vera Cruz as this dispatch is being written."

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The Senate today agreed to the conference report on the volunteer army bill, transferring the militia to the army in time of war.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The battleship Louisiana has left Vera Cruz to meet the transports and destroyers from Galveston and convoy them to Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, April 24.—Admiral Badger has dispatched a supply ship to New Orleans for provisions of all kinds. The American fleet will have to feed many of the inhabitants, as communication with the city inland has stopped.

BERLIN, April 24.—A private telegram stated that Porforio Diaz, who has been living in Europe since his government was overthrown by Madero, has left incognito for Mexico to fight the Americans.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, April 24.—Two hundred Americans and their families from Madera and Pearson are marooned in the mountains by the derailment of their train.

VERA CRUZ, April 24.—General Blanquet is reported on his way from Mexico City with reinforcements to join General Maas, who evacuated the city and established a camp eight miles to the west. Blanquet is expected to attack the American forces now in the city.

REFUGEE TRAIN HELD UP BY TROOPS OF MAAS

VERA CRUZ, April 24.—A refugee train from Mexico City, carrying 150 Americans, 100 Germans, 300 Spaniards and Mexicans, and 50 Englishmen, arriver here last night under the personal conduction of Thomas B. Hohler, charge d'affaires of the British legation.

The exodus from the capital was arranged through the joint action of the British and German diplomatic officials with the War Office. The train proceeded slowly and with many interruptions reached the Mexico outposts at Tejeria at noon, where it was detained for two hours while a search was made by the Mexicans for railroads officials, four of whom were arrested and held until General Maas, at Soledad, was communicated with and their release ordered.

Those arrested were General Superintendent Comfort, Superintendent of Locomotives Blake, National Superintendent of Locomotives Burk and General Superintendent Rowe, all of whom had been formaly discharged by the Mexican government when the roads were taken over.

The passengers suffered little inconvenience, all who desired being furnished with Pullman accommodations. There were fourteen cars in the train. A majority of the passengers were women and children.

About three miles from Vera Cruz a section of track nearly a mile long was found torn up. At this point the refugees walked, carrying their baggage, to a train on the Vera Cruz end of the break, which the British, co-operating with the Americans, had sent out to meet the train from Mexico City. A detachment of British marines, unarmed, acted as escort to the refugees on this last stage of their journey to Vera Cduz.

WASHINGTON STREET AND TEMPLE PLACE.

When you see a dainty foot daintily shod in a shoe that looks as soft, as snug and as supple as a glove, that shoe is either one of two things, a high-priced shoe or a PATRICIAN.

If it is a PATRICIAN, it looks decidedly high-priced. If it is high-priced it looks decidedly like a PATRICIAN.

PATRICIAN SHOES not only look high-priced, but they feel high-priced, and you can pay much more for shoes that will not compare with them for wear. Recent Improvements in the Misses' and Girls' Specialty Shops

More space in the Misses' Dress Shop on the Fourth Floor—a judicious rearrangement of cases giving deserved space to the new incoming Summer Cottons. The Misses' Millinery Shop has migrated to the Washington Street front (in a position corresponding to Women's Millinery on the sixth floor), turning over their old quarters to Misses' Skirts and Coats. Tub Skirts will soon make their debut and the new section will be none too large.

Misses' Dresses

New Cottons at $10

are not a bit like ordinary cotton dresses. Quite as much "style" about them as about better frocks; and the crepes, ratines and English piques of which they are made are quite as interesting as the silks and things that cost ever so much more.

The "Coxswain" is a trim little dress of English pique, with color-striped blouse and tunic, and white skirt and cape-collar. (Sketched.)

The "Coquille" shows how pretty the scallop motif can be. It is of colored cotton crepe, with stenciled white blouse, tunic, cuffs and revers are scallop edged. (Sketched.)

Also at $10 are striped voiles and hip-ruffled ratine dresses. Rice-crepe ruffled dresses are $7.50.

Misses' Afternoon Dresses, $15.

Soft figured Aztec taffetas with ruffled paniers and plain lawn Quaker collars.

Dresses for Girls at the Awkward Age

Perhaps she is having her first graduation in June—we have ever so many pretty white dresses to fit her.

Perhaps she began to grow "long" or "wide" all of a sudden and found all her dresses too short-skirted, or short-sleeved, or short-waisted.

We have studied her particular problems and made dresses that recognize long arms and legs, and make them inconspicuous.

We have them in plain and stripe gingham, plaids, linens, crepes, batiste, net and silk, from $3 to $18.50.

Sketched is a pretty plaid gingham tunic dress trimmed with plain color hemstitched chambray. It has a ruffled Peter Pan collar and a youthful shoulder yoke back and front. It is $7.50.

For little girls of 6 to 14 come bloomer dresses of gingham, percale and crepe from 95c to $7.50.

(Filene's—Fourth Floor)

Misses' Coats

Tweed Balmacaans $10.75

Fine flecked gray tweeds; sleeves and yoke are satin lined. Full skirts, full Raglan sleeves; and slit pockets.

Eponge and Serge Coats, $15

They are lined through with two-season peau de cygne. They have fitted kimono sleeves and corded back-belts.

Tailored Coats are $15

Checks and serge, lined through. The model is a modified Balmacaan, with Raglan sleeves and short skirt.

(Filene's—Fourth Floor)

Girls' Coats for Less

—by two or three dollars—than they would have cost a week ago. The maker wanted to sell them quickly, they were just what we wanted, so here they are.

Tailored Serge Coats, $5

Box coats or belted coats, with moire or check collars. Navy and copenhagen serges.

Loose Coats, $7.50

Full-skirted coats with full Raglan or kimono sleeves. Some are belted in back. Hard navy serges and colored velour checks. Sizes 8 to 14 years.

Gibson Pleated Coats, $8.75

Copenhagen blue serge with low belts, pockets and silk collars.

(Filene's—Fourth Floor)

Misses' Compose

Waists

of Crepe de Chine and Cotton Crepe

We have had compose suits, compose dresses and compose skirts. Now comes the compose blouse. These have bolero tops of hemstitched crepe de chine; bottom and sleeves are figured cotton crepe. Generous shoulder collars of plain white organdie, $5.95.

Japsilk Blouses, $2.35

Purposely plain and practical, for wear in schoolroom or office. White only.

(Filene's—Fourth Floor)

Misses' Skirts

With "Apron" Under-tunics

This particular skirt started its careeer as part of a suit, and we found that misses liked it so well that it is now standing on its own feet in the skirt shop. It comes in checks and navy blue wool pebble-crepe. Both tunic and under-tunic are bound with black silk. It is $7.50. Other check tunic skirts are $5.

(Filene's—Fourth Floor)

Misses' "Prom" Petticoats

One of crepe de chine, on an elastic binding, with a deep flounce of net and lace, is $4.15

One of silk muslin, with flounce of shadow lace and insertion, is $2.15.

Girls' Matched Undermuslins

(Filene's—Fourth Floor)

Mother Brings Daughter Here for HATS

because, knowing how many schoolgirls keep new hats for "best," and wear last season's "best" hat every day, we make any number of hats to wear two seasons. We make them of good straw, bows and flowers; make them youthful and simple, and never so extreme in style that they shout "Last season!" the Spring after.

Trimmed hats of Tagal straw and satin straw, for girls of 12 to 16, are $3.50 to $6.50.

Dress hats for younger girls of 6 to 14, are $3 to $7.50.

(Filene's—Fourth Floor.)

Misses Who Want Suits Right Away Should Ask to See

5,000 MEN EMBARK FOR FRONT AT GALVESTON

By HARRY H. DUNN.

Special War Correspondent of the American.

GALVESTON, Tex., April 24.—Five thousand bronzed and acclimated American soldiers comprising the Fifth Brigade, second division of the United States Army, were electrified into sudden activity shortly after midnight by the receipt of orders ing, "orders to go to the front."

A great cheer went up and then the regulars settled down to the task of getting ready. While the tents were being struck, regimental bands played merry airs. The soldiers paid little attention to the music. They had got what they have been wanting "orders to go to front."

At dawn the embarkation of the troops on the four transports in the harbor was begun. The Nineteenth Infantry, commanded by Colonel Millard F. Waltz, boarded the Sumner. This was the first vessel to receive her load of fighting men. Then in rapid order the commands of Colonel R. G. Van Vleit, Lieutenant Colonel P. W. Moore and Colonel Plummer marched aboard the Meade, Kilpatrick and McClellan.

RUSH SUPPLIES.

Before the first private went aboard the transports they had been fully provisioned. Piercing whistles from the vessels had set in motion the necessary machinery for completing the work of loading the ships—a work that had been under way for several days.

Great yellow army automobile trucks tore through the streets to the docks with horns shrieking, taking the final loads of camp supplies.

Under the glare of searchlights the men worked rapidly on the docks and big cranes swung the cargoes aboard.

Officers of the quartermaster's department worked without any stop. On Thursday it was found that the four transports would be insufficient for the task and the army officers immediately opened negotiations for the Mallory liner San Jacinto, and the Southern Pacific liner El Cid. The first named merchant steamer will carry troops, the other supplies and cavalry horses.

General Funston announced early in the day that the brigade would be on its way by noon unless it is decided to await the loading of the artillery. He said that if he were directed to wait for the guns the delay would be only a few hours.

VAST CHEER GOES UP.

Galveston got no sleep from midnight. Thousands turned out to watch the departure of the troops and a vast cheer went up when the Twenty-eight infantry, under the command of Colonel E. H. Plummer, swung out of the portals of Fort Crockett in a dense fog into the sea wall boulevard and thence across the city to the docks.

Immediately following came the Seventh infantry, the Ninteenth and the Fourth. The engineers, hospital corps and the field batteries had gone aboard during the night.

General Funston, accompanied by his personal aid, Lieutenant W. G. Ball, came over from Texas City shortly after daybreak. It was reported that the McClellan had been selected to carry Funston's flag.

RED CROSS SOCIETY TO ASSEMBLE WAR NURSES

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The War Relief Board of the American Red Cross is prepared to respond to any call the government may make. This committee on direction was appointed to have immediate charge of relief work:

Brigadier-General William C. Gorgas, surgeon-general of the army, chairman; Surgeon General William C. Braistead of the navy; Major-General George W. Davis, U. S. A., retired; Miss Mabel T. Boardman, chairman of National Relief Board, Red Cross, and Ernest B. Bicknell, national director of the Red Cross.

The board instructed the chairman of the National Committee on Nursing Service to direct local nursing committees throughout the country to have Red Cross nurses report to headquarters weekly their whereabouts and how free they are to respond to a call for war service.

Attention is called to the fact that under the provisions of the Treaty of Geneva, and by Presidential proclamation, any other society desiring to render similar assistance can do so only through the American National Red Cross. Immediate preparations for fulfilling these duties are imperative.

This will involve heavy expenditures, and the Red Cross relies upon the public for generous contributions to enable it to meet these demands.

PRESIDENT HIBBEN PLEDGES SUPPORT OF PRINCETON IN WAR

At the dinner of the Princeton Alumni Association of New England President George Grier Hibben of the University said:

"If there should be any need of the services of Princeton in the event of war, and God forbid there should be, there would be a hearty, enthusiastic and vigorous support given by the administration by every Princeton man; and just as they came to the support of their country in the revolutionary war and in the civil war, so now will they play an honorable part in serving their country, whenever they are needed."

SIMPLE WAY TO END DANDRUFF

Stop Falling Hair and Itching Scalp.

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need); apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve, and entirely destroy, every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you value your hair, you should get rid of dandruff at once, for nothing destroys the hair so quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everybody notices it.

MASSACHUSETTS TROOPS PREPARE FOR WAR

EXPECT CALL FOR BAY STATE MILITIA

Hall today to decide upon a camping ground inside the city limits for volunteer troops. The War Department directed the colonel to secure the grounds at once.

The colonel favors Franklin Field ,but the Mayor desires that the Readville track or some other place be selected. As soon as a decision is reached the work of laying out the camp ground will begin, water pipes will be laid and tents put up. The War Department will be notified as soon as the camp ground site is selected.

The camp will be used for the mobilization of strictly volunteer regiments.

State militia officers today visited Framingham and Middleboro to prepare for the placing of these regular camp grounds in order to receive the militia regiments when they are called out. These officers will report to the Governor tonight.

The full strength of the militia here today officially is placed at 5,820 men and 493 officers. This gives a total of 6,313 in all branches of the service, with a peace maximum of sixty to a company.

Under the secret plans of the War Department, as being worked out by the militia officers here, each company immediately will be placed on a war footing of 108 men as a minimum, making the total number of State troops 10,000.

Bay State to Be Among First.

With every company recruited to its full war strength before the President calls out the militia, and mobilization camps already prepared for their being massed together, Massachusetts will be among the first to send men to the front.

Governor Walsh today announced that there is a serious lack of proper equipment for Massachusetts militia men, should they be called upon for service. He issued this statement:

> I have discovered a serious shortage of shoes, overcoats and packs, and have wired the War Department stating the need of $50,000 at once to furnish this equipment.
> I asked whether that sum could be transferred from the annual appropriation for immediate use. I also wired Senator Weeks to use his influence to see that our needs are at once attended to.
> No call has yet been received, but I don't know what moment it may come.

It is expected that the Fifth, Sixth and Ninth regiments will be called upon at first for service.

Adjutant-generals in all the States have been ordered by General Mills, in command of the militia of the country, to prepare for war.

According to the statement of General Mills today at Washington, New England will be called upon to furnish 5,000 volunteers. Of this number 3,157 will be selected from Massachusetts. Maine is to furnish 492, Connecticut, 1,181; New Hampshire, 502, and Vermont, 534.

All three of the Massachusetts regiments have enviable war records to uphold. The Sixth saw the first bloodshed in the Civil War at Baltimore. In the Spanish War it participated in the Porto Rican campaign. It has one colored company, L, of Boston.

Colonel Cyrus H. Cook of Concord commands the Sixth, Colonel Frank F. Cutting of Wakefield the Fifth. The Ninth is commanded by Colonel Edward L. Logan.

Ratings of efficiency of the five separate organizations of the State militia for 1912 show that the Sixth led in totals.

The companies of the Sixth Regiment come from Wakefield, Company A; Fitchburg, Company B; Lowell, Company C; Fitchburg, Company D; Framingham, Company E; Marlboro, Company F; Lowell, Company G; Stoneham, Company H; Concord, Company I; Lowell, Company K; Boston, Company L, and Milford, Company M.

The Fifth Regiment Companies come from Charlestown, Companies A and B; Newton, Company C; Plymouth, Company D; Medford, Company E; Waltham, Company F; Woburn, Company G; Charlestown, Company H; Attleboro, Company I; Hingham, Company K; Malden, Company L and Hudson, Company M.

The Ninth Regiment, in the Second Brigade, has seven companies in Boston. They are A, B, C, D, E, H, and I. The others are at Lawrence, Company F; Worcester, Company G; Clinton, Company K; Natick, Company L, and Lowell, Company M.

Tech Regiment Is Ready to Go to War

The Technology Regiment, officially the 12th Massachusetts Reserves, is ready for the President's call for volunteers to go to Mexico. Colonel L. F. Hamilton of Medford is in command. Tonight a war meeting and parade will be held with a rendezvous at "the third elm to the east of Fairfield street on Newbury street." A full student band, consisting of everything from a banjo to a bass drum, will report.

Methodist Boys at Daily Flag Service

The Boys' Brigade, Junior Boys' Club and the Nurses' Corps of the Greenwood Memorial Methodist Church in Dorchester have established a routine flag-raising to be continued daily while the war with Mexico lasts. At 6:30 every morning squads of the boys stand at salute while the company bugler plays "America," and the flag is raised upon the church tower

PATRIOTS THRONGING TO ENLIST

OVERTIME WORK FOR OFFICERS

The United States recruiting station at No. 61 Hanover street did not close until 9 p. m., so eager were Boston young men to take examination for service in the ranks of Uncle Sam's marine corps. The office is usually closed at five o'clock.

Two hundred young men had applied for enlistment. Of this number eighteen were accepted, the flower of young American manhood. These men will be sent to Norfolk, Va., and from there will be rushed to Mexico to do duty under the American flag.

It was a patriotic crowd of citizens that gathered in front of the recruiting station. Everyone was talking war.

Captain W. H. Parker, in charge of the recruiting office, said many men are coming from surrounding cities and towns to enlist. There were some very disappointed men among those who were refused. All appeared to be anxious to get to Mexico as soon as possible.

Soldiers, sailors and marines who have seen service and who are now employed throughout Massachusetts have either written or appeared personally at the recruiting offices signifying their intentions to enlist if their services are required.

In response to an order by Captain Parker for all ex-marines to report, more than a score of the former "soldiers of the sea," with their good conduct discharges in their hands, appeared.

TESTS ARE SEVERE.

The examination for enlistment in the marine corps is the most severe of the three branches of Uncle Sam's service and Captain Parker has wired Washington asking to have some of the restrictions removed. One man who was physically and mentally fit had to be refused because he was only a half-inch less in height than the standard measurements.

At the army recruiting office in Tremont Row, Captain Edward Croft had his hands full. Several men were sent to New York, while others will leave this afternoon. When a recruit is accepted in Boston he is sent to New York, and must report to the commanding officer at Fort Slocum. Every man who has been sent to New York has reported which goes to show that there is not a man in Boston who is looking for free transportation. The men are sent on their honor.

Captain Croft received applications from three registered physicians for enlistment in the hospital corps. There is no recruiting station for the medical department in New England and all desirous of joining this branch of the service must write or report to the Surgeon General at Washington.

Word was received from Charles Corey of East Boston, president of the Navahoe Club, and Secretary Edward F. Brennan of the same organization to the effect that more than 100 men at a meeting of the club expressed a desire to enlist.

COMPANY IS FORMED.

It was finally decided to form a company and Fred Smith, who was on the U. S. S. Prairie during the Spanish war, was elected captain. He will drill the volunteers and should the militia be called out this company will offer its services.

This is believed to be the first organization in New England to form a company and drill with decided intentions of joining the service should the army require recruits.

Since the fighting has begun applicants have devised a little scheme. The marine corps has the most severe examination, the army the next and pass the marine requirements go to the army station and if not accepted there go to the navy bureau on Tremont street.

Each of the commanding officers at the local recruiting offices have telegraphed to the War Department asking to have the strict regulations required for enlistments reduced. If this done the officers claim that more than 100 men will be accepted every day.

TWO GIRLS CALL ON WILSON TO ENLIST AS RED CROSS NURSES

WASHINGTON, April 24. — Two pretty girls, carrying Red Cross books, called at the White House and announced that they wished to volunteer as nurses for the United States in the "war with Mexico." They insisted on tendering their services to the President personally. They were sent to the Red Cross headquarters where they gave their names and addresses as follows:

Miss Adele Masterman, No. 1804 M street, Northwest, Washington, and Miss Caroline Fee, No. 1180 St. Paul street, Rochester, N. Y.

Officials of the Red Cross say Misses Fee and Masterman are the first volunteer nurses to appear in person at headquarters.

CHICAGO RECRUITING STATIONS ASKED TO ENLIST ALL POSSIBLE

CHICAGO, April 24.—Orders have been received here to enlist all the men possible at the Marine Recruiting Stations. The order, which came from Major General Commandant George Barnett, Marine Corps, Washington, D. C., reads:

"Disregard quota for district. Enlist all men possible. Use extra efforts to re-enlist ex-marines."

Applications for enlistment have been ten times above the normal here.

O'SHAUGHNESSEY QUITS MEXICO CITY UNDER HEAVY MEXICAN GUARD

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The following telegram from Charge O'Shaughnessy, dated April 23, was received at the Navy Department early today from Admiral Fletcher:

"I am leaving for Vera Cruz in a special train tonight accompanied by the staff of the embassy and an escort of Mexican troops. The Mexican troops will accompany me until they are told to stop by their commander. My train should arrive in the neighborhood of Vera Cruz—that is at the place where the Mexican troops will leave me—some time during the morning.

"I have the honor to request you that you will make the necessary arrangements in order that the train may be permitted to enter Vera Cruz, and, if these be impossible, to make such arrangements as may be dictated by circumstances, in order that I may be permitted to reach Vera Cruz after my Mexican detachment has left me.

"I shall be accompanied by General Corono, chief of the Presidential staff, and other distinguished officers of the Federal Army, the reception of whom, in a worthy manner, I beg to leave to your courtesy."

NEW YORKERS CHEER BOSTON MARINES ON THEIR WAY TO MEXICO

NEW YORK, April 24.—The first martial display in connection with the hostilities in Mexico, seen on the streets of New York city, took place when a detachment of .80 marines khaki-clad and bearing heavy service impedimenta, marched down Fifth avenue from Forty-third street to Thirty-second street en route from the Grand Central to the Pennsylvania station.

The detachment was composed of marines from the barracks at Boston and Portsmouth, N. H. They were under command of Captain James T Butterick and on being joined in Jersey City by a detachment from the New York Navy Yard, proceeded to the League Island Navy Yard at Philadelphia, where they sailed on the steamship oMrro Castle for Vera Cruz.

The clean-cut business-like appearance of the marching men stirred the patriotism of those who lined the sidewalks in Fifth avenue.

Carranza's Counsel Seeks to Save Rebels

WASHINGTON, April 24.—In an effort to readjust the relations between the United States and the Constitutionalist forces of Mexico, Judge Douglas, counsel for Carranza, held a long conference with Secretary of State Bryan. It is said that Judge Douglas called to forestall any movement by this country against the Constitutionalists.

Daniels to Sleep on Couch in Office

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Secretary Daniels has left his home. He finds that he can't sleep at home because of the feeling that he ought to be at the Navy Department. "So I've gotten a blanket and pillow," he said, "and am going to camp out in my office." He will sleep on a couch.

VILLA OPPOSES WAR WITH U. S. AND PROCLAIMS FRIENDSHIP

REBEL CHIEF GLAD VERA CRUZ IS TAKEN

By OTHEMAN STEVENS.

EL PASO, Tex., April 24.—General Villa has arrived in Juarez with a guard of seventy men. He went into quarters in a comfortable house at No. 42 Calle de Lerdo, where Mrs. Villa awaited him. He immediately gave interviews to the correspondents ful of amity for Americans and assertive of the desire for peace with this country. His purpose in coming was "private business." He said:

We do not want a war with the United States or any other foreign nation. Mexico has troubles of her own, and Mexico can settle them if it is but given a little time. Personally, I believe they are on the point of settlement now. I came to Juarez to meet my good American friends to extend to them a hand of friendship and to thank them for the great interest they have taken in the efforts of the Constitutionalists to restore peace to my unhappy country.

I do not want war, and I am sure your people do not. We have always been good friends, haven't we? Why shouldn't we continue that way? You may rest assured I will do all in my power to see that there is no change in our relationship."

Later General Villa, head of the rebel military forces, informed George Carothers, special agent of the State Department, that he will decline to be dragged into a war with the United States by anybody.

"Why," he smiled as he threw an arm about the broad shoulders of the government representative, "all Europe would laugh at us if we went to war with you. They would say that 'little drunkard Huerta has drawn them into a tangle at last.' "

PROTESTS FRIENDSHIP.

Villa said he was not consulted in the drafting of the Carranza note transmitted to Secretary Bryan and which was regarded as somewhat hostile in tone.

The rebel leader told Carothers, who reported the interview to the State Department, that one of the chief reasons he came o Juarez was to show the American people that his attitude was friendly.

Carothers took supper with Villa and canvassed the situation thoroughly while doing justice to an American meal—salad, beef and potatoes, with trimmings.

"Honest," said the rebel general between mouthfuls, "I hope the Americans bottle up Vera Cruz so tight they can't even get water into it. Your admiral is doing something it would have taken us a long time to accomplish, if we could have accomplished it at all."

Juarez looked exactly like a cup of peaceful grape juice. The Constitutionalist soldiers loitered about the plaza slapping at flies and sleeping. General Villa was smiling and amiable, and peace was protested possibly over much.

REPORT REBEL ADVANCE.

If it was all sincere the atmosphere was just what Mr. Bryan has been wanting. There were statements from submarine sources along the Rio Grande that a trainload of artillery was so far on its way to Juarez as Simalayuca, and that back of it were two troop trains coming from Torreon. "Suppose it is true," say the friends of Villa, "is it not natural that he should wish to have some force in Juarez considering the apprehension in El Paso?"

I would not call it apprehension in El Paso. It is more like preparedness.

The officials at Fort Bliss frankly said today:

"We shall take all precautionary measures possible with the gorce at our disposal. We would like that known for the benefit of our friends on this side and the other side of the river."

So by afternoon the 2,000 men at Fort Bliss and the six machine guns were disposed throughout the city. The machine guns have been planted at the international bridges.

The military embargo on exportation of arms and ammunition only lasted a few hours today, but other steps have been taken which will prevent the Constitutionalists from taking over the 171,000 rounds of ammunition seized in a warehouse here and then released. Since February 28 Villa has received fifteen machine guns through this city.

MORE SOLDIERS DENIED.

Former Governor Curry of New Mexico was in town and was enraged at the administration attitude. He met with considerable support, and fiery words were abundant.

Business men, who wired forcible demands for more troops, received replies from Washington that El Paso had enough soldiers, and must look after itself if attack came.

The local military men take the situation most serious. Colonel Hatfield has headquarters in the City Hall, the machine guns at the bridges, the detachment of troops under full arms in advantageous places in the city, the rushing here of a battery of four three-inch field pieces from Fort Sam Houston, two additional troops of cavalry from Columbus, N. M., the effective precautions taken to guard the water works, the electric lighting system and the telephones, the organizing and drilling of citizens to the number of 500, all well armed, a complete system of spreading a call to arms—these all indicate that the situation is taken seriously and that there is some belief that the coming trains of Villa artillery and troop trains is taken as a fact, and considered of no good purpose.

SEEK TO REPLACE CARRANZA.

During four years El Paso has dwelt in the midst of alarms which never grew to other proportions than words but it is recognized that if Villa decides to make himself a hero of all Mexico he could take the centre of the stage from Huerta by raiding El Paso. Skipping back over the line, destroying the railway behind him and precipitating a war that would leave him, if he survived when it was over, the biggest Napoleon in the long list of Mexico's Bonapartes.

Officials of the Carranza Junta in El Paso admit that war would now mean national obliteration of Mexico. They are using all their reasoning to convice Carranza that he has gone too far. But reasoning men are infrequent in Mexico when the people are angered, and there is every reason to believe that the unifying sentiment around both Huerta and Carranzaistas is increasing every moment.

It looks as if President Wilson has started something that will take the American people to settle.

Meanwhile El Paso is waiting and watching.

A committee of citizens, including the Mayor and Sheriff, called upon the publishers of one newspaper and asked the editor to modify their head lines and refrain from printing some of the improbable reports, for instance, of the improbable approach of 12,000 rebel troops and a train of artillery already disembarked a few miles south of Juarez, ready for a night attack on El Paso.

The publishers agreed to do it, with the result that by so doing they contributed toward further inflaming a more excitable portion of the populace, which desires war.

TRAINS CONTAINED COTTON.

After the arrival of General Villa it was discovered that anywhere from four to twenty troop trains were on their way to Juarez. They contained not soldiers, but five or possibly six train loads of cotton, which had been seized at Torreon, and was being brought to the border to be sold for the benefit of Villa's army.

The excitement did much to stimulate the trade in firearms and ammunition, and, despite the fact that it is contrary to the laws of Texas to sell pistols to any one or rifles or shotguns to strangers, every ammunition house in El Paso sold out long before night.

The run on arm houses began shortly after noon, and the city and council officials got together to formulate a request upon these dealers that no firearms or ammunition of [illegible] be sold to any persons not [illegible] permit to own and carry [illegible], signed by the sheriff of [illegible]. This tended in a measure [illegible] the outward flow of shooting [illegible], but it did not stop it. Hundreds of applications for permits were refused at the sheriff's office.

One of the effects of the excitement was to cause hundreds of men to hurry their wives and children to points in the North and East where they might have relatives, in order to get them out of danger. Every train leaving El Paso, east, west or north, is crowded and carries extra Pullmans, exhausting the equipment in El Paso.

The statement was made late yesterday afternoon that an additional battery and a regiment of cavalry was coming from Fort Sam Houston, and another regiment, the Ninth Cavalry, was being sent here from Fort Huachuca. This, however, has not been confirmed, except as to the battery, which is due to reach here late tonight or early tomorrow.

The Mexican Federal soldiers, nearly 5,000, in the prison at Fort Bliss in the opinion of many, affords a much greater cause for alarm than does the rumored approach of Mexican troops. In the face of General Villa's protestations of friendship, the occupants of the prison camp are followers of General Huerta, and since the Tampico incident have been particularly restless.

BOSTON & MAINE OFFERS EQUIPMENT FOR CARRYING TROOPS

All the equipment of the Boston & Maine Railroad has been placed at the disposal of the State Militia by the officials of the line for transporting troops going to Mexico whenever necessary. Charles M. Burt, the general passenger agent, made the proffer.

Also in Maine and New Hampshire, the State military authorities have been notified that the equipment of the road is at their disposal. In the case of the former State, the stipulation is added that a six hours' notice must be given it troops are to be transported, so that trains can be assembled.

In order to facilitate transmission of notices by the State authorities when they want to assemble troops, the road has placed representatives in Concord and Augusta who will receive the messages and help in the arrangements for trains. In Boston word will be sent direct from the State House to the general offices of the railroad company.

The railroad announces that trains can be assembled anywhere, in this State at least, on a few hours' notice. If the order were issued to assemble troops at Portland, the trains could be sent from Boston to that city in a shorter space of time than it would take the militiamen to gather there for entrainment.

LIMANTOUR HOLDS HUERTA IS HELPLESS WITROUT CARRANZA

PARIS, April 24.—Jose Yves de Limantour, former Mexican minister of finance, says that he has no knowledge of the plans of General Porfirio Diaz, but thought that in view of the ex-President's great age and indifferent health it was unlikely he would return to Mexico.

Senor Limantour is quoted as saying that without the followers of General Carranza, General Huerta could do nothing against the Americans and that even guerilla warfare would be impossible.

Senor Limantour concluded by exclaiming:

"May true patriotism burst forth in Mexico. May the trap into which my country has been led be soon denounced before the tribunal of the public opinion of the world."

TROOPS ENTRAINED FOR THE BORDER

WASHINGTON, April 24.—The army is moving on Mexico. Forty-five hundred infantry, artillery, cavalry and other forces embarked at Galveston today on the transports Meade, Kilpatrick, McClellan and Sumner to follow the path blazed by the heroic marines and sailors who fell at Vera Cruz.

These troops are under command of Brigadier-General Frederick Funston, who won undying fame by dashing with a handful of men into the lair of Aguinaldo, the Filipino rebel and taking him prisoner.

Funston's men will be followed by others as soon as transports can be set in motion and merchant steamers commandeered.

Major-General Wood, who will take command when the main army enters Mexico is ready to go. General Wood has selected as his personal staff Captain Frank R. McCoy of Washington and Captain Halsted Dorey, now at Galveston.

War Now, Declares Washington

It is war now was the word flashed about the White House and war and navy departments as officials hurried to and fro. "The American consulate at Mexico City has been attacked."

Announcement that General Funston's troops has been ordered to get away for Vera Cruz immediately was soon followed by news that additional movements of troops would be ordered shortly.

War department officials responded to appeals for the strengthening of the border patrols from Americans along the international line were apprehensive of an outbreak. Secretary of War Garrison announced that the three regiments of infantry at the Presidio of San Francisco were ordered to report to General Bliss at El Paso. Artillery forces at Fort Riley were also directed to hurry to the border. They will start within a few hours. General Bliss has orders to distribute these troops at such places as he finds advisable.

The first real battle of the war is anticipated within a few days near Vera Cruz.

General Maas, the Mexican Federal commander who evacuated the coast city when the American marines and bluejackets were landed is said to be gathering large bodies of troops ten miles from the city to await the arrival of reinforcements under Minister of War Blanquet reported to be getting ready to march from Mexico City.

The strengthening of the border forces also was ordered to enforce the embargo against the shipment of munitions of war into Mexico, which Secretary of War Garrison last night announced had been established after numerous official denials had been made that the embargo would apply to arms destined for the Constitutionalists.

"Under orders of the department, no munitions of war at present will be permitted to go over the border." was the announcement of the Secretary of War. These orders were the reply of the American government to the note of General Carranza demanding the withdrawal of the American forces from Vera Cruz and indicating that he would join his forces with Huerta in a united effort to repel the American invasion.

Wilson Will Ask for 250,000 Men

Because of the seriousness of the situation official Washington looks for the appearance before Congress within 48 hours of President Wilson to ask authority to call for a volunteer army of from 250,000 to 500,000 men. It is pointed out by war experts that the troops from Galveston and those now on and near the border will be insufficient to meet the situation in Mexico.

The two nations today were without diplomatic relations. The severance of official connections was accomplished when Senor Algara, the Mexican charge d'affaires here, and his entourage left Washington during the night for Canada, and Charge O'Shaughnessy and his staff left the Mexican capitol for Vera Cruz on special train.

Three more United States bluejackets have been killed at Vera Cruz. Twenty-five were wounded in desultory fighting that followed the landing of additional forces yesterday from the warships off the port. The United States troops now occupy the whole city, according to the official report of Rear Admiral Badger.

Rheumasalts Is Fine For Torpid Liver

Learn How to Secure Quick, Safe Relief

The liver is the largest gland in the body, weighing nearly four pounds. Its main purpose is to aid digestion and make glycogen for the blood. So it is important to keep it working right.

If your liver is lazy and your kidneys throb with a dull ache, you need the scientifically blended and chemically pure carbonated lithia drink called Rheumasalts.

Lame back, shooting pains, tired feeling, dizziness, and nervousness simply mean that your liver and kidneys are clogged with impurities, and that poisonous uric acid is retarding their work of aiding the digestive functions and filtering the blood. Flush your liver and kidneys and set them working right by taking Rheumasalts in water for a few mornings.

Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness and bladder disorders come from torpid liver and sluggish kidneys. Take Rheumasalts. This delightful effervescent lithia drink helps the weakened kidneys and cleans out the stomach, and eliminates toxins and poisons, and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.

It is uric acid solvent as well as a saline laxative. Acts quickly without griping or nausea.

The next time your liver and kidneys bother you or your back aches, ask your druggist for a bottle of Rheumasalts. It comes in 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles. If he hasn't the genuine Rheumasalts send the price to the Rheumasalts Company, Dept 163, Minneapolis, Minn., for a bottle.

RUSH WORK ON THREE BATTLESHIPS

NIGHT AND DAY SHIFT AT YARD

Crews of laborers, machinists, carpenters and employes of the Charlestown Navy Yard are working night and day in three eight-hour shifts to get the armored cruiser North Carolina, the gunboat Castine and the battleship Rhode Island in commission by next week. Newly enlisted men from the recruiting offices are being sent direct to the Navy Yard instead of to receiving ships, as is done in time of peace, so that the crews of these three fighters may be complete by Monday.

The Rhode Island, which is one of the biggest fighters of the navy, is being fast put in condition under imperative orders from the Navy Department.

The Castine is being coaled today. The gunboat Castine and the cruiser North Carolina are under orders to sail as soon as they are repaired, and the necessary stores put aboard. The crew of the former boat is nearly complete, owing to the big draft of men sent to the Charlestown yard yesterday. The present crew numbers 10 men, and her full list is but 133 men. She would be able to sail with her present crew in case of necessity.

The North Carolina, which has been used as the receiving ship, or the ship where the "rookies" are broken in," when they first join the navy, will be [illegible] on Monday, according to [illegible] yard officials. But little repair [illegible] is necessary on her and her bunkers are being filled with coal today.

The Rhode Island, which is having [illegible] mounted, will not be ready [illegible] for a full week, although [illegible] are working on her night and [illegible]. She is one of the largest of her [illegible] and is a speedy boat.

At the Boston naval recruiting station [illegible] it was stated that many [illegible] were [illegible] and [illegible] being sent directly to the Charlestown yard, as are the recruits [illegible] from the other New England [illegible] for which Boston is the chief [illegible].

Thirty recruits were sent to the Navy Yard [illegible] today and most of them assigned to the Rhode Island. Seventy-five per cent of these men were formerly in the navy and wanted to get back in the service, as there are good chances of their seeing service against the Mexicans.

Many sweethearts, wives and mothers of the sailors of the three ships now at the yard came there today to see them and to watch the coaling and provisioning of the ships.

With the sailing of the Nebraska, Virginia and Georgia the Navy Yard and Boston's streets were almost deserted of the uniformed jackies.

The largest crowd, according to old officers at the yard, that had ever attended the sailing of any battleship, or ships, witnessed the departure of the three largest members of the North Atlantic fleet.

One of the most pathetic instances was the belated arrival of a mother, whose son sailed on the Virginia. Together with her daughter she arrived just as the big ship was going down the harbor. She was told by the marine guard that the battleship had [illegible]. On learning this she broke down and wept and had to be assisted out of the yard.

MISS ANNA M. WILLIAMS, a Wellesley girl, and Lieutenant Harold C. Daniels, who will be married at Navy Yard Saturday.

Because of the present Mexican crisis and the fact that he might be ordered at any time to Mexico, Lieutenant Harold C. Daniels of the Marine Corps and Miss Anna May Williams, niece of Lieutenant-Commander [illegible] C. Williams, engineer of the Charlestown Navy Yard, will be married tomorrow night at House N, the commander's residence in the yard. Miss Williams hurried to the navy yard, where she formerly lived, in order that the wedding might take place immediately. She has been attending Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. C. Lieutenant Daniels, the groom, comes from Newton. He has seen service in the Marine Corps all over the world and was in charge of a detachment of marines during the Boxer troubles. Lieutenant D. F. Smith will act as best man, and the navy yard band will furnish music. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Wellesley College.

RUSH PLANS TO RAISE ARMY OF VOLUNTEERS

WASHINGTON, April 24.—Rapid action on the new army bill under which the volunteer forces gathered for war will hereafter be raised was ordered by Congressional leaders today as a result of the preparation for conflict in Mexico.

The bill provides for these things:

That the volunteer army shall be raised by the President only during the existence of war or while war is imminent.

That the army ends its life when war ceases.

That the number of men required will be determined by the President.

That all enlisted men shall be taken as far as possible from the States in proportion to their population.

That the volunteer apportionment is without regard to any part the militia of any State may have in the [illegible].

[illegible] volunteers are in every [illegible] the same footing with officers and men with the regular [illegible].

[illegible] President with the consent of the Senate appoints all officers.

[illegible] can be named under the rank of Colonel [illegible] be named from the regular army, from the militia upon the recommendation of the government, or directly from civil life.

That in the latter class preference be given to those who have served in the regular army, the national guard, the volunteer forces or have been educated in military schools.

MOTHER PROUD OF BOY WHO FELL AS HERO AT VERA CRUZ

NEW YORK, April 24.—"Dennis couldn't have died for a better cause and I am proud of him."

This was the comment made today by Mrs. Margaret Lane, mother of Dennis J. Lane, one of the United States seamen killed in the fighting at Vera Cruz. The patriotic mother bore up bravely in her grief. A number of friends of young Lane called to pay their condolences to the mother.

Lane enlisted in this city two years ago and was assigned to the New Hampshire.

ARGENTINE PAPER ATTACKS WILSON ON MEXICAN POLICY

BUENOS AYRES, April 24.—La Argentina publishes an interview with Ugarte, an anti-American agitator, who says that Americans invented lynch law to assail individuals and the Monroe doctrine to assail nations.

La Prensa in an editorial says that President Wilson's Mexican policy is unwarranted by international law or by the Monroe doctrine. The President, it continues, does not understand Latin-America.

Mexico, says La Prensa, presents the same problems as Cuba. Mexicans are heroic and patriotic and anxious to fight after the thirty years of oppression by foreign capitalists maintained by Diaz.

Why Catarrh Bothers Your Nose and Throat

Living, Vital Facts For All Who Suffer With Any Form of Catarrhal Infection and Chronic Colds

Would a Salve in the Chimney Stop the Smoke? Where's the Fire?

Everywhere people marvel at the results of S. S. S. in overcoming catarrh. To the mind not versed in the wonders of the human body it will be interesting to understand why this most famous of all blood purifiers, S. S. S., has such a remarkable influence in clearing the nose, throat and air passages of catarrh.

Your nose, as are all the important cavities of the body, is lined with mucous membrane. So is your throat and even your skin covering is a modified form of mucous tissue. Now, all toxins or blood impurities are eliminated by way of this membrane. Stomach distress, intestinal [illegible], liver engorgement, kidney weakness, sore lungs and bronchial tubes that produce cough, an irritated bladder, diarrhoea and other bowel troubles all may be and often are inflamed and involved in a general state of disturbance which is recognized as catarrh. And it is through their mucous membranes that the impurities or hypersecretions of mucus must be eliminated. In such an event it is often necessary that these secretions be prepared by some internal medicinal influence of action before they can be effectually gotten rid of. And if not so prepared for elimination they are usually deposited in some vital part and remain as points of concentration for various forms of chronic inflammation.

Now, the action of S. S. S. is to so prepare the various blood impurities for elimination that they are readily seized upon by the mucous membranes for expulsion. And if S. S. S. were more generally used as a membraneous catalytic there would be no catarrh.

But along comes LaGrippe and "Bad Colds," all the mucous membranes are involved and the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs being closely allied in the process of burning up impurities these become clogged, hence catarrh, bronchitis, chronic sore throat, pneumonia, cough, and then the general involvement of the stomach, kidneys, bladder and all other organs of the body.

Cough remedies, nose greases and throat tablets, gargles, sprays and [illegible] are merely salves on a smoking chimney.

The fire may be down in the stomach or in the liver or in the kidneys.

The very fact that the nose is constantly pouring out or is [illegible] with mucus must convince anyone that the supply is coming from many [illegible] sources.

This explains why local treatment for catarrh is and always has been a failure. The action must be [illegible] and there are [illegible] which not only [illegible] purifies by way of [illegible] membranes but they put a stop to [illegible] ing the point of concentration [illegible] nose and other parts of the breathing apparatus.

These facts have been demonstrated for many years and are known to thousands in every community where catarrh abounds. But people cannot [illegible] shake off the notion that the [illegible] the seat of trouble. The nose is merely an outlet, the same as the bladder, bowels, skin and the expulsive [illegible] of the lungs.

Urge yourself to get a bottle of S. S. S. today. Get your mucous [illegible] order and not only will [illegible] but away goes a myriad of other symptoms that usually distress nine out of ten. S. S. S. is guaranteed absolutely vegetable, no acids, no [illegible], no poisonous substance of any [illegible], just a remarkable blending of the [illegible] potent [illegible] most [illegible] blood purifiers known to man.

Do not permit anyone to substitute anything else for S. S. S.

Send for an interesting book on catarrh.

There are many people so discouraged over blood impurities that they will find a new lease of life by consulting freely our Medical Department. Write to The Swift Specific Co., 605 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

GREATEST WAR NEWS SERVICE GIVES THE AMERICAN ITS MEXICO "BEATS"

HOW "INTERNATIONAL" COVERS FIELD OF WAR

[illegible] story of how the International News Service, [illegible] Boston AMERICAN, gets the [illegible].

The organization [illegible] a few women. There are writers, reporters, photographers, moving picture men, wireless experts [illegible] experts—hundreds.

To begin with, the Mexico City bureau of the service, under J. A. Jennings, [illegible] over Mexico City, and are now with the American refugees on their way to Vera Cruz.

At Vera Cruz C. R. Crossman heads the bureau, which has a staff as large as [illegible] average newspaper. Mr. Crossman is a correspondent of experience.

Roscoe [illegible], whose name is familiar to AMERICAN readers, is also at Vera Cruz, as are A. M. Jamieson and a big squad of photographers.

News Steamer Chartered.

To cover naval operations along the coast the news service has chartered a [illegible], the Senator Bailey, from Galveston, to cruise up and down the coast. The vessel will accompany the fleet of transports from Galveston. And aboard the ship is the most capable staff of correspondents ever gathered together by any press association.

There is Harry H. Dunn, who has lived in Mexico City, as well as serving as war correspondent in Central American revolutions.

There is Charles Michaelson, former managing editor of the Chicago American, who served as a war correspondent in Cuba during the Spanish American War.

There is Thomas F. Coates, who fought with the American forces in the Philippines, and who has served as war correspondent in a number of campaigns.

There is Jack Binns, the hero of the Republic disaster, the most famous wireless man in the world, to supervise the wireless work.

There is Ariel Varges and his staff of expert, finely-equipped photographers.

There are C. L. House and M. W. Herrlinger, sub-wireless operators. The wireless equipment is one of the best in the Gulf, and will carry from 250 to 400 miles.

Movies on Real Warfare.

A. E. Wallace, head photographer of the service, is aboard the U. S. S. Minnesota. Mr. Wallace has spent months in Mexico photographing the Federal army in the field. He was recently arrested in Mexico City and put out of the country. He has a staff of assistants.

There is Herman Stockoff, another expert, aboard the Tacoma. Both of these men have moving picture men on their staff, and for the first time in history moving pictures will be made of real warfare. These films will be available exclusively to the AMERICAN in Boston. The finest "action pictures" are made from single pictures on moving picture films.

And besides these "Star" men, the service has correspondents with Villa, at Brownsville, El Paso, Laredo, Eagle Pass, Douglas (Arizona), Nogales, Chihuahua, Juarez, and at every other strategic point along the northern border.

"If it happens, the AMERICAN will have it—and have it first."

MILITIA FIGHT LIKELY TO WIND UP IN COURT

With Massachusetts apparently on the eve of a call for troops to be sent to Mexico, the fighting forces of the State are in a turmoil over the contest between Governor Walsh, the Commander-in-Chief, and Adjutant-General Pearson, the Governor's "military secretary."

Governor Walsh has been asking since January 1 for the right to pick a new adjutant-general.

Pearson wants to hold on.

A bill repealing the Act of 1912, which gave the adjutant-general a five-year term, made its appearance today in the State Senate. The bill was passed in the House yesterday by a vote of 122 to 98.

It was reported at the State House today that if the Senate passes the bill reducing the tenure of office of the Adjutant-General and giving the Governor the right of removal, Governor Walsh will at once remove Pearson and name Brigadier-General E. Leroy Sweetser in his place.

Rumors that General Pearson is determined to carry the matter to the courts, in the event of the Governor's success in the Senate, traveled through the State House corridors early in the day.

The adjutant-general, it was said, will contend that, having been given a five-year term by the Legislature, he can no more be legislated out of office than the Mayor of a city. The Pearsonites illustrate their point by taking the Mayor of Boston for an example. The Mayor, they say, has just been chosen for a four-year term. No act of the Legislature, they contended, could shorten Mayor Curley's term to a single year.

FIGHT IN THE SENATE.

From the camp of the Governor, on the other hand, it is said that General Pearson would have no chance in the courts. He was never "appointed" under the five-year act, they say, but merely had his original one-year term "continued."

Whatever the adjutant-general may do when—and if—the Senate comes to the aid of the Governor as the House did yesterday, for the present the Pearsonites will fight even harder in the Senate than they did in the House.

The battle for Pearson in the upper chamber will be led by his friend and neighbor Senator Edward Fisher of Westford.

Senator Fisher is a Democrat. Adjutant-General Pearson is a Democrat. The Governor is, of course, a Democrat.

The most notable feature of the battle in the House was the fact that the Republican leaders with the exception of Representative Tom White of Newton championed the cause of the Democratic adjutant-general and fought the Democratic commander-in-chief.

Governor Walsh has made no public charges against the adjutant general. He has rested his case publicly on the fact that for 140 years the Governors of Massachusetts, each in his turn, have enjoyed the right to pick their own adjutants general. Since New Year's Day the Governor has been pointing out that he is himself the commander-in-chief and asking the power to name a man as "military secretary" with whom his relations may be harmonious and sympathetic.

Representatives Channing Cox of Boston, J. Edward Beck of Chelsea and Robert M. Washburn of Worcester, Republican leaders and orators, led the opposition in the House.

On the Governor's side the speakers were Representative (and Major) John H. Sherburne of Brookline, Republican; Representative White of Newton, Republican; Peter F. Tague of Charlestown and John J. Lydon of South Boston, Democrats.

SPENDS $800,000 YEARLY.

It became known today that the breach between the Governor and the adjutant-general is now so wide that the business of the militia, usually taken care of by the adjutant-general, is handled by the Governor in his own offices and through his civil secretaries. It is being said again and again, from the Governor's office, that His Excellency has no confidence in the adjutant-general.

Supporters of the Governor have been loath to make a personal attack upon General Pearson.

Representative [illegible]—But we want facts, concrete facts, no subterfuges, but facts.

Mr. Tague—The adjutant-general's department has the expenditure of $[illegible] [illegible]. Lately the adjutant-general asked the Legislature for a "publicity officer." The committee [illegible] leave to withdraw [illegible] face of this, and against the wishes of the commander-[illegible] adjutant general designated [illegible] publicity officer at $[illegible] [illegible] the week, a man [illegible] but recently entered [illegible]. [illegible] But if the adjutant [illegible] anything [illegible] doesn't [illegible] as he has [illegible].

Tague—The Governor has had no desire to go to that length. I have no desire to go into the personal side of this [illegible] but when one of the authorities from Washington says, as was said yesterday, that if the Governor sends troops out from Massachusetts under some of the present officers it will be "little short of murder," I maintain that it is time for us to pass this bill without further quibbling.

Mr. Tague's use of the word "murder," in this connection, furnished Mr. Cox [illegible], Republican, with [illegible] a spirited ten minute speech.

[illegible] the gentleman from [illegible] said Mr. Tague. [illegible] today at a conference [illegible] Governor at which [illegible] the very words [illegible]. [illegible] I would say to the gentleman [illegible] whatever he may see fit to [illegible] reveal no confidence [illegible] Governor of Massachusetts sees fit to repose in me.

MEXICAN REFUGEES AT EL PASO ARE TO BE HELD TILL WAR IS OVER

WASHINGTON, April 24.—That the 5,000 Mexicans held prisoners at El Paso, Texas, will not be given liberty until after the crisis in Mexico has been passed was learned at the War Department today.

If given [illegible] every man now in El Paso stockade probably would [illegible].

Among the [illegible] Mexicans are [illegible] women [illegible] fifty children. The cost to the United States of [illegible] cents a day for each prisoner. War officials say, however, it is cheaper to hold the Mexican prisoners than to fight them.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

COLLEGE STARS OF 2 COUNTRIES AFTER RECORDS

By FRANK G. MENKE.

Some record smashing performances are in prospect tomorrow in Philadelphia when the best college athletes in America and England will clash in the annual relay races in Franklin Field.

With practically every college of size in the United States sending its crack runners, and with the men trained to the minute for terrific bursts of speed, it seems certain that with weather conditions favorable, many of the old records must fall by the wayside.

Among the colleges entered in the championship events, which consist of one, two and four-mile relay races, are Harvard, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Chicago, Illinois, Colby, Princeton, Notre Dame, Kansas, Carlisle, Virginia, Pennsylvania State, Boston College, Colgate, Dartmouth, Ohio State and Oxford. The Oxford team which arrived a week ago from England, is said to be the fastest combination ever brought together in the British Isles.

In addition to the one hundred college runners who are entered for the varsity and freshmen events, something like 2 0 preparatory, high school and grammar school stars will compete in the races of their own class. The parochial schools of Philadelphia will stage a relay race of their own, to decide the parochial championship of that city, and the fourteen Catholic schools that will have representation have entered about seventy runners.

So many entries came in at the last minute that it was necessary for the committee in charge of the affairs to schedule five additional events, so that all the runners would have a chance to display their ability.

In the college championship, Cornell, Pennsylvania and Chicago seem to have the best teams, but there are more "dark horses" this year than ever before. The Oxford quartette, despite the fact that they never have been seen in action in this country, are favorites for the four-mile relay. The English teams reeled off some wonderful miles in England just before coming here and if they can hit things up at the same clip when pitted against their American foes they may be able to grab the honors.

John Kilonis defeated "Bull" Montana in two straight falls in the regular weekly mat bout at the Grand Opera House. The first fall was won by Kilonis in 12 minutes and 30 seconds with a reverse head scissors and wrist lock, and the second in 21 minutes and 39 seconds with a head scissors and hammerlock. The match was marred by rough work by both.

SIDELIGHTS ON SPORTS By AHC Mitchell

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

A BASEBALL maxim as old as baseball itself is "You can't play ball in cold weather." If proof were needed in support of this statement, the opening game at the old South End grounds would prove it. The high wind kept the fielders guessing on every fly ball that was hit, kept the players' hands cold and kept the spectators shivering.

The outfielders ran around in circles trying to locate some of the fly balls, the wind carrying them out of reach in some instances where under ordinary conditions, the catch would have been easy.

ZACK WHEAT, for example, was badly fooled by the wind and as Stallings said after the game: "When Wheat wobbles around after a ball you may know there is some wind blowing."

Hank Gowdy, usually sure of foul flies, missed two easy ones; that is, they would have been easy except for the wind. Evers misjudged one or two, and so on down the list.

GEORGE TYLER had horseshoes tied on him, otherwise he would have been driven to the wall, which would have been a pity, as the entire Tyler family from Derry, N. H., was on hand to see George work. George had plenty of stuff on the ball and the Brooklyns couldn't touch him when he put 'em over, but he was as wild as a hawk, passing eleven men. In one inning he issued four passes, had a base stolen on him and Gowdy pulled a passed ball, yet the Dodgers could not get a run over the pan.

In that wild inning—the third—there were cries of "take him out," but Stallings, wisely, in spite of his wildness, kept him in.

THEY have a big board up this year which records the balls, strikes, outs and batsman. It is a welcome innovation.

TWO of Stallings' new outfielders, recently acquired, arrived in time to put on uniforms and appear on the field. Their appearance must have acted as a stimulant to the other gardeners on the club, who have been hitting in poor style since the season opened. Anyhow, the fellows that haven't been hitting took a brace and helped a lot in driving in runs. Little Joe Connolly poked out a three-bagger that scored a pair of runners. Griffith helped along with a safe one and Mann, while he didn't fatten his average, fielded like a whirlwind and contributed a sacrifice.

THE two new outfielders are Kraft, purchased from the Brooklyn [illegible] and Murray, bought from Buffalo. Kraft is a well-built fellow who batted for more than [illegible] in the Southern [illegible], last year. That he made [illegible] with the scouts is evidenced by the fact that there were six drafts in for him last Fall. He is also a pinch first-baseman.

Stallings has been angling for Murray ever since the Braves played the Buffalo team at Charlotte, N. C., early in the month. The deal was only closed in the last forty-eight hours. He was ordered to report to Stallings on Wednesday, but Manager Clymer of the Buffalo team kept him in Baltimore and used him, so that he was not able to reach Boston until 2.30 yesterday afternoon.

PITCHER Pat Ragan struck out in "true mid-season form," as Tommy Rice, the Brooklyn newspaper man, who is traveling with the team, expressed it. If what Ragan showed yesterday is the best he can do with the stick, we would like to see him play a nineteen-hole batting match against our distinguished ash artist, Hub Squash Perdue.

EVERETT HIGH AFTER RECORD ON DIAMOND

Will the Everett High School baseball team continue its winning streak for another season? This question has the followers of school baseball guessing.

It will be remembered that the Everett High team defeated everything last season while this year the boys have already won four straight and give promise of winning many more games.

Everett lost the services of Johnny Murray, its star pitcher, who went to Lawrence Academy, at the close of last season and it was not expected that another man could be developed to fill his shoes, but Coach O'Donnell has several twirlers this year that are coming along fast.

Burant and Lasky will be called upon to uphold the Everett colors and the twirling of these boys so far this season has been of a high order.

Everett has already defeated Boston College High, Cambridge Latin, Medford High and Somerville High and all four of these schools are represented by strong teams.

Buckley, Bennett and Hunt are playing the outfield positions in great style. Green at first base, although not as steady as "Dutch" Bold of last season's championship team, is a good player.

Fitzgerald is playing a whirlwind game at second base. Jones at short stop and Driscoll at third base round out the infield.

Everett will play Malden High at Malden tomorrow afternoon and this will be a hard test for the team. Malden has a strong nine and with good pitching will give Everett a hard battle.

Somerville High will work hard to get back to its winning streak when it faces Medford High tomorrow afternoon at the Fulton Street Grounds, Medford.

The defeat at the hands of Everett High was the first suffered by the Red and Blue this season. Fitzgerald will do the pitching for Somerville and his team will rule the slight favorite to win.

ALBERTS MEETS EAGAN IN BOUT THIS EVENING

By JACK CONWAY.

JOE EAGAN, South Boston's clever welterweight, will have to fight at a merry clip in order to hold his own with Johnny "Kid" Alberts of [illegible] beth, N. J., whom he meets in a twelve round bout before the [illegible] A. C. on Dartmouth street [illegible] Eagan has [illegible] within the [illegible] past six months and has [illegible] such husky performers as "Young" Jasper, Johnny [illegible] and Dave Deshler.

The Peninsular boxer fought Deshler before the University club in Cambridge last Monday night and completely [illegible] his opponent. In Alberts, however, he will meet one of the [illegible] welterweight glove men in the [illegible].

Alberts has been a busy young man in the [illegible] the past year and the defeats [illegible] against him have been few [illegible] between. He is a fair [illegible] is blessed with a knockout blow in either hand, as he proved when he stopped Phil Cross, brother of the famous Leach Cross. Phil was being boomed for the welterweight championship before he was knocked out by Alberts.

THREE preliminary bouts have been arranged. Teddy Murphy of the West End will clash with Jerry Lucente of the North End in the semi-final contest, and a spirited tussle is looked for. These boys are both bantamweights. Eddie Kaufman, who hails from the West End, will exchange blows with Joe Bailey who asserts that he once resided in dear old New York. These two ambitious youths scale at 13[illegible] pounds. The opening whirl will bring together Tom Dorris of the fair city of Cambridge and "Young" Ketchel who asserts in a loud tone that he comes from Butte, Montana, but we have an idea that it has been some time since Mr. Ketchell swapped stories with the boys at the corner grocery store. The Neptune Club has opened an office at Room 311, 7 Water street.

THE enterprising speculators, who risk a little real money on boxing matches, have made Freddy Welsh a 10 to 6 favorite over Leach Cross for their twenty-round bout, which will be staged on the Coast next Tuesday. They figure that Welsh's ability as a boxer will enable him to outpoint the New York artist who depends upon his punch [illegible] ability in order to win his ring [illegible].

On paper [illegible] should defeat Cross. Willie Ritchie [illegible] lightweight we know [illegible] better boxer than Welsh. Consequently if the Englishman is able to keep Leach at bay for twenty rounds he should win the decision. [illegible] however is a sweet [illegible] he should land one of [illegible] we shall [illegible] English champion to [illegible].

EDDIE MURPHY today started to prepare [illegible] for his ten-[illegible] bout with Jerry Dohan of [illegible] which will be decided before the University A. C. of Cambridge a week from tonight. The [illegible] was originally booked for Monday [illegible] it was put over until the latter part of the week by the directors of the club.

THE Neptune A. C. has been holding its show on Friday evenings, therefore it would seem as though [illegible] Cambridge promoters would not have selected the same evening for their meetings. Conflicts have never been known to aid the glove game.

THE Atlas A. A. will continue to stage [illegible] at the Arena until November. The matchmaker of the triple A organization has several [illegible] view and fistic lovers should [illegible] plenty to talk about during the next few months.

Cheney, Pierce and Archer to Remain

RITCHIE TELLS HOW HE GOT FIRST WOLGAST GO

BY WILLIE RITCHIE—NO. 12.

It was a busy time for me during my first visit East. They kept me on the job all the time and I had seven fights in seven weeks, which I considered pretty good for a boy away from home for the first time and just taking a chance. But at last the old homesick feeling began to creep over me. I wanted to get back among my folks and friends, and at last I decided to pack my things and return to San Francisco.

For the first time in my life I really felt independent, for I had $3,500 in the bank, and figured I would not have to worry for a while, no matter what happened. Still, I was ambitious and wanted more.

But the game was really dead in San Francisco then, and I was unable to land anything. I just laid around, for I did not care to go back to the four-rounders, because I believed that my Eastern experience ought to put me in line for some better matches. I passed up several good offers.

Finally I got the idea of seeing Wolgast, who was doing a theatrical turn here. I had heard he was getting himself ready to try himself out in a short bout and I felt that I had just as much license as any of them to get on with the champion.

Ritchie Goes After First Wolgast Match.

"Will you give me the first chance when you decide to get back in the game, Ad?" I asked. "You can make your terms."

"All right, Kid," said Wolgast, "but I am sorry that you have not got a reputation, for I will tear right after you."

"That's all right; you can tear as hard as you like. I have been up against some pretty tough ones lately," I retorted.

A couple of the Pittsburgh promoters wanted to stage the match, and I went to see Wolgast about it, but he said he preferred to box in San Francisco, although he was not [illegible] then. He again promised me that he would let me in on the first crack at him.

Wolgast went south and returned a couple of weeks later. He told me that he would be [illegible] a four-round [illegible] suggested that Promoter [illegible] handle the match, with Jack Welsh as referee.

I went to Coffroth and put up the proposition to him. He seemed to like the idea, although he [illegible] handled a four-round match [illegible]. We did not have any trouble in reaching an agreement, for I was willing to fight for practically [illegible] just to get a chance to [illegible] what I could do against a real champion. Wolgast was to get practically everything that he asked for, which was fair enough then.

Match Is Closed by Coffroth for May 11.

We [illegible] to fight May 11, and I had a couple of weeks in which to train, and, believe me, I sure did work hard. This is where I had a good edge on the champion. He felt sure that I would be an easy mark, and he did not do as much work as he should [illegible] that was his [illegible] Wolgast always [illegible].

I [illegible] at the Seal Rock House [illegible] Wolgast [illegible] the way [illegible] a rat [illegible] were [illegible] and the [illegible] the crowd [illegible] fight. However those who [illegible] show up certainly saw [illegible] action in four rounds than they ever did before.

Well, Wolgast tore right after me when the bell rang [illegible] I was in for a [illegible] He kept swinging and rushing and I stopped many a hard wallop. The crowd cheered, for they thought that the champ was back in form after his [illegible] operation.

But I just stood up there and [illegible] I guess he [illegible] in the first round for he was the aggressor, and kept right on top of me all the time and I could not get set. We stumbled over each other in the second round and I helped the champion up.

We were fighting like mad every inch of the way and the fans were on their feet cheering all the time.

Willie Is Dropped for Count of Nine.

He caught me a right-hand swing [illegible] in the third round and I [illegible] I really believe that this was the hardest blow I ever received, but still I was not dazed nor even groggy. I took the count of [illegible] the time was [illegible] I would stand when I got to my feet [illegible] standing over me.

Finally I got up and went into a clinch. He tried hard to put me down again, but I was strong and fought right back. We were slamming away at each other when the bell rang. Believe [illegible] this was one of the [illegible] rounds I ever fought and I [illegible] right after I got to my feet. Confidence again helped me.

He tired in the last round and I finished strong. I think that I had a good lead and was entitled to a decision [illegible] was a no-decision affair [illegible] the majority of newspapers [illegible] Wolgast had a bad [illegible] however, I did not kick, for I [illegible] my reputation had been made then.

LIPTON SAYS SHAMROCK IS NOT A BEAUTY

Special Cable to Boston American.

LONDON, April 24.—Sir Thomas Lipton, who has just returned after a four months' absence abroad, during which he visited Ceylon, went today to Nicholson's shipbuilding yard, at Gosport, where the Shamrock IV. is being built, and after inspecting the challenger came to London.

In a talk with the Boston AMERICAN correspondent, Sir Thomas was asked if the new challenger pleased him.

"Pleased is not the word," he replied, "I am more than pleased. Before her keel was laid I said she would be a wonderful boat. I now say when Shamrock IV. is launched next month she will be acknowledged as the most wonderful type ever sent out from any yard in Europe.

HAS NOVEL FEATURES.

"She has features which never have been introduced in any boat afloat. She is neither a copy nor an improvement; she is just Shamrock IV.—a new type and design by herself.

"I do not think her appearance when completed will get her a prize at a beauty show. All my previous boats would easily have won everything at a beauty show, but they could not win at Sandy Hook. Shamrock IV. will look rough, but unless I am much mistaken, she will prove to be the best pilot that ever crossed the Atlantic in showing the way to the finishing line.

"I am sure my American friends will say when they see her that she is a [illegible]

CUP IS PRODIGAL SON.

"The cup has been a bit of a prodigal son and will get a prodigal son's welcome if it comes back to its native waters, and even though we might only keep it here a few months it would prove to be a tonic for the sport of yachting on this side of the Atlantic.

"[illegible], on account of some special [illegible] not arriving according to contract, the time of launching has been postponed until the middle of May.

"My present Shamrock, which won so many races in British and German waters, will be launched May 1. Trial races between the new and the old boat will be kept up in the Solent and at Torquay. The challenger should be ready to sail for Sandy Hook about July.

"I anticipate that my good friends of the New York Yacht Club will put no difficulties in the way of a reasonable interpretation of the towing clause.

"My crews are all ready for both boats. I will have a number of men who have sailed with me for the last fourteen years, and you may be sure they are the pick of British talent. The Shamrock IV. will be painted in my color, emerald green.

"The famous firm of Ratsey's have made special suits of sails, which for beauty and workmanship cannot be beaten.

"Pat and Mike, my two Irish terriers, are getting their sealegs. Jacko, the baboon mascot brought by Sir Thomas Dewar from Africa, is practicing to take a turn at the wheel.

"Everything is ready and, quite seriously, I never before felt so confident that I have the chance of a lifetime to lift that cup."

RED SOX SQUAD OUT TO REPEAT VICTORY TODAY

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 24—The Washington "fans" are handing bouquets to Manager Carrigan today, over the Red Sox's victory yesterday when Rankin Johnson, the Boston recruit, outpitched the "Peerless Walter," and incidentally jarred all the wise boys in the stands, who "doped it out" that Carrigan sent the Texas Kid in to try him out, only that and nothing more.

Johnson's victory is all the more remarkable as Griffith and his men threw all their strength into the game on account of it being the inaugural, and everybody pulled to win. It was simply a case of "too much Johnson," looking at it from the losers' as well as the winners' end of the battle.

Today is another day, however, and both teams promise to put up the greatest game of the year. Manager Griffith said early today that he would work Jim Shaw today against the Red Sox, while Manager Carrigan's one best is Ray Collins. Griff may substitute Boehling at the last minute, but it goes without saying, that the Red Sox's star southpaw will be there when the bell rings.

Larry Gardner was much better this morning and looked none the worse after his struggle with a bad stomach. Manager Carrigan said he wouldn't allow Gardner to go in unless he was perfectly well, as he was satisfied Janvrin can fill the bill satisfactorily.

The attendance yesterday was something of a surprise, as it was thought the park would be jammed. A big bunch of tickets was sent down to Richmond, as it was thought many admirers of the club would come up, but, at the last minute, something like 600 tickets were returned unsold.

All the officials around the White House and departments were holding down their jobs for fair yesterday on account of the Mexican trouble, and President Minor had to journey over to the Capitol and persuade Speaker Clark to come out and toss the first ball to Walter Johnson.

President Minor is a stickler for an official christening of the opening [illegible] performance, and when he found President Wilson was out of the running he lost little time digging up a good substitute.

BRAVES AFTER SECOND GAME WITH DODGERS

With the opening home game of the season against Brooklyn carefully tucked away the two old rivals come together again this afternoon at the Walpole street grounds and a hard fast battle is looked for as both Manager Stallings of the Braves and Robinson of the Dodgers declare they will win.

The playing of the Braves was a pleasant surprise to the great outpouring of fans who faced the arctic winds to welcome their favorites home and some record crowds are looked for when the weather gets a bit warmer.

Stallings, as well as the rest of the men, are more than pleased that they have again escaped the cellar position and they all predict that the Braves will continue to climb until they are at the very top of the pile.

The Dodgers never had a chance after the first inning of yesterday's game, when they scored their lone tally against the total of nine for the Braves.

President Gaffney, with Mrs. Gaffney and their daughter, occupied a box. George Tyler's family from Derry, N. H., was on hand, and, of course, all the thirty-third degree fans of Boston, including Uncle Bill Cahill of East Boston.

The parade to the flagpole by the players differed from the old-time march. The players sauntered down the centre field by two and threes, then they spread out fan shape while camera men and moving picture operators performed their stunts.

After that the flag was raised as per schedule and then the players marched back to martial strains.

Just before the game Manager Stallings walked from the runway under the grandstand to the Boston bench and as he entered the dugout he was loudly cheered by the "fans" on the first base bleachers.

Just before play the players of both teams gathered about the plate and witnessed the presentation to Manager Stallings of a cluster diamond pin, the gift of the Boston players.

GEORGE E. PHAIR SAYS:

THE KING PIN.

He little cares for contracts or for courts,
For lawyers, judges, juries or their class,
And yet he puts a crimp in outdoor sports
And tells the legal folk to go to grass.
He little cares if baseball magnates rave;
He walks upon the feelings of the fan.
You simply cannot make that guy behave—
Yagotta hand it to the Weather man.

The Feds are not to be blamed for the latest eruption in Dooin's camp. It was blown up from inside.

If those magnates start many more lawsuits it may be necessary to run them in double headers.

"Ritchie," says Harry Foley, "is solid bone and muscle." It would be easier to believe them cruel words if he had said them about Knockemout Brown.

BY ANY OLD MAGNATE.

I watch the crowd on opening day
And shed a bitter tear,
For though it is a grand display
It comes but once a year.

The difference between Charlie Thomas and Charlie Murphy is that when Thomas has nothing to say he says nothing.

A glance at the box score of the first game in the Federal League reveals the fact that Swan is playing first base for Baltimore.

We have a suspicion that a dog compelled to compete in that 412-mile race in Alaska leads a dog's life.

It is hard to dope the race in the American League this season. For [illegible] of us we can't tell which team will finish next to the Athletics.

Reports anent the women boxers in Providence lead one to believe that Sylv[illegible] [illegible]st could whip a dozen of them with one hand tied behind her.

Colonel Hedges threatens to put an end to gambling on the Browns; but why should anybody gamble on the Browns?

TELL IT TO SWEENEY.

SEVEN YANKEE STARS IN GOLD CUP GOLF PLAY

LONDON, April 24—The United States will be strongly represented in the thirty-six-hole stroke competition for the golf illustrated gold cup which will be held at Sunningdale on April 30.

There is a magnificent entry list of 123, which includes seven Americans—Francis Ouimet, Jerome D. Travers, Fred Herreshoff, A. G. Lockwood, Fraser Hale, Harold Weber and C. W. Inslee.

Other well-known players entered for the competition, which will be one of the greatest ever held among amateurs, include H. H. Hilton, the British amateur champion; Lord Francis Hope, champion of France, and Ivor Whitton, the Australian champion.

OUIMET TO PLAY HILTON.

Ouimet has been drawn to play with Hilton and Travers with Herreshoff.

Travers is playing wonderful game just now. In the opinion of Jack White, who won the British open championship [illegible] it will be well nigh impossible for Travers to be beaten in the amateur championship at Sandwich next month.

Travers and Herreshoff went to the Walton Heath course yesterday and, with James Braid, played their best ball. The [illegible] all square. Braid went out in 35 and was home in 36.

Travers went [illegible]. He took 3 for eight [illegible] outward bound. At the last [illegible] into a bunker that guarded the green.

After failing to get out in two shots he picked up. Herreshoff did not keep his score.

BRAID PLAYED WINNING GAME.

A three-ball match was played in the afternoon [illegible] and conceded to Travers two [illegible] up and to Herreshoff four [illegible]. Braid then beat the former [illegible] and one to play and the [illegible] three up and two to play.

[illegible] afterward that Travers played [illegible] well considering it was [illegible] over the course [illegible] himself to the Sandwich course he ought to be a dangerous contender for the championship.

World Record Made with Cue by Hoppe

NEW YORK, April 24—Willie Hoppe, the world's balk-line billiard [illegible], established a new record [illegible] 303 in his match against [illegible] F. Slo[illegible] in the 14.1 [illegible] line tournament for the world's championship at this new style of [illegible]. His run is within four points of his world's record of 307 at the less difficult game of 18.2 balk line.

Calvin Demarest of Chicago outplayed the Japanese expert, Yamada, winning in twenty-eight innings, 400 to 256.

Bush and Johnson Families Have Busy Day in Baseball

BUSH FAMILY.

LESLIE BUSH, of the Athletics, pitched an odd game against New York in Philadelphia, fanning seven batsmen, but giving nine bases on balls. He also led both teams at bat, cracking out two doubles and a single.

* * *

OWEN BUSH, at short for Detroit, was the fielding sensation of the game with St. Louis, his stops and throws cutting off runners at several critical stages. Bush accepted eleven chances without an error. He figured in two double plays, scored a run and was hit by Weilman, the St. Louis pitcher.

THE JOHNSONS.

WALTER JOHNSON, Washington's [illegible]—beaten for the first time this season, and well beaten at that.

BAN JOHNSON spent the day at a funeral in St. Louis.

GEORGE H. JOHNSON, late of the Cincinnati Reds, restrained by court order from playing with the Kansas City Federals.

What Dancing Will Do for Your Health and Beauty

By MAE MURRAY

By MAE MURRAY.

Copyright, 1914, by International News Service

DOESN'T every one remember the adorable un-self-conscious feeling that comes with childhood? At least, if we have lost it altogether, there are nearly always memories of it remaining. And aren't memories tantalizing?

I think it is quite easy to always remain a child, and dancing seems to be such a help in this respect that I should really like every one to know just how much there is in it. For instance, a child's body, because its soft curves have not been interfered with, is supple and has natural poise and balance.

A child can go everywhere and do everything gracefully unless it has been brought up in the stiff, unchildish way that some of our modern children are affecting. You see, a child hasn't begun to think about how a thing is going to look, and therefore the misery of self-consciousness has not begun to ruin all its natural grace.

There is no dancing so successfully beautiful as a child's dance of joy. Perhaps the steps are not technical, but the idea itself comes from the heart and is therefore natural expression. In the beginning the dance was always meant to represent something. And that is as it should be today.

All dancing should be spontaneous, should be the result of a sincere emotion. If the emotion isn't there, dancing will bring it in a short time.

It is impossible to dance without feeling to some extent the thrill that comes at first from nothing more than the ordinary flush of physical exercise, but which soon develops into the actual joy which comes to every one who is happy.

And that is what it amounts to after all. People whose interests in things have become jaded are hunting the world over for the return of the old thrill that used to come so easily.

My advice to you people is to begin dancing, and then watch for results.

Don't go into it with the idea of enjoying anything but the dance itself; just forget everything else for the time being.

Those society people who crowd their heads with everything in the world and then mince around the room a few times in the very latest importations think they are dancing. But they're not. Children don't dance with this spirit. There is something more back of it all; they express something, and that something is the real poetry of motion. To really dance, one must go back to childhood and dance like a child.

So begin to dance simply and naturally, your thoughts will go so far ahead of your feet that you will soon find yourselves doing all kinds of steps that are really different.

When this happens, you will be really dancing, you will be interested, you will be back in kid-land, and, best of all, you will find that you have actually forgotten how to be blase and world-weary.

CHAPTER FIVE

GEORGE steered the machine around aimlessly for what seemed to him a long time before he had any idea of direction at all. There seemed to be no trace of the stranger anywhere and with so much to his advantage in the start there was hardly a likelihood of being able to overtake him. Already five or six hours had elapsed since headquarters had been notified.

At the balloon court, the men could give him little help. In the confusion of the night before no one had thought to take direction into consideration at all, the aeroplane had seemed to glide into view out of a void of darkness, poise directly over their heads and in the midst of a shower of bullets which ought to have wrecked the car and killed the occupant several times over had he remained directly in the line of vision until every balloon in the court had been destroyed. As to the direction the aviator had taken when he had sailed away, no one knew, no one remembered even seeing him leave. There had been a sudden cessation of the bomb throwing, and then darkness had apparently swallowed him up. It all sounded very hopeless and with no encouragement from any of the men at court, the machine once more made the ascent and sailed away.

ON THE TRAIL

"Let's see," George mused to himself, thoughtfully, "the only thing to do is to put myself in his place. What would I have done under the circumstances? Made for camp, certainly the nearest one; but where was the nearest camp?"

As yet there had been no attack from either side, and no definite knowledge of the movements of the enemy had been discovered by the Dawsbergen troops. George whirled the machine over the ground where they had last encamped, but it was deserted now, and with a sudden grim determination he turned in the opposite direction from which he had been traveling and put on all speed. The machine whirled through the air, and with the conviction that he was at least getting somewhere George steered the car recklessly onward. It was certain that the enemy's camp would come to light sometime soon, and then he could make his plans and arrange his next move. Of course there was the possibility of being taken himself, but he could do no more than fail, and the chances were about even.

Finally he picked up his binoculars for another look over the country. From time to time he had been scanning the air around him, and all the adjacent land, but not even a speck had appeared upon the heroison to reward him for his pains. The country spread out clear and wide in a great rolling sweep around him. Even at his great height from earth nothing that might be the camp of the enemy appeared. What was it that the General had said?

"Bergstern seems to have dropped completely out of sight. We can't seem to locate them, and God knows what their next move may be!"

George lifted the glasses and swept a long look over the heights. Nothing visible, and yet what was that speck far away to the south. It looked like a bird and yet it wasn't possible for a bird to be seen at so great a distance. George put on all speed. Nearer and nearer he came, but now the outlines which for a moment had loomed up quite plainly through the field glasses, were becoming fainter again. It was without doubt an aeroplane, and most probably the machine contained the man he wanted But already his pursuit had been observed, for the stranger was putting on all speed in the hope of a rapid get-away.

THE RIGHT TRAIL

The right trail at last; so much on his side anyway. Now he was sure to win, and he was steadily gaining. Slowly and surely his machine was making good. Already he could see the whirring end piece; now he was close enough to observe the rise and fall of the great fans. Closer and closer, and then suddenly the machine ahead of him began to drop. Down, down it went, with George Modzel's machine close behind. Now they were just above the earth; now the machine ahead had touched, and a moment later George's machine had come to a stop, too, and the chase continued on foot. Shouts in the rear brought George to the realization that help was at hand. A small troop of Dawsbergen men who had been out on a scouting forage since early morning had joined in the chase.

As yet George Modzel had no slightest inkling of the fact that the man he was pursuing and whom he was determined to kill or take prisoner for the sake of Dawsbergen was Adolph Hardy. And Hardy, himself, desperately in need of a place of refuge, hunted down by a band of men who would stop at nothing once they had captured him, was trying to form some plan of escape as he stumbled blindly on. Just ahead of him was a mill, old and deserted, which if he could gain in time would prove as effective as anything in warding off the danger for some time. At least it would give him time to make way with the dispatches he carried upon his person and which he was to deliver into the hands of the commander of the Second Regiment once he had safely accomplished what he had set out to do.

The men were close upon him, but with a yell of defiance he gained the steps of the mill, slammed the heavy wooden door and barricaded it securely from within. George Modzel would indeed find the enemy showing signs of fight. A moment later the whole scouting party dashed up the steps after him in an attempt to batter down the door. Hardy dropped his emergency bombs which were smaller, so they could be carried about his person, but none the less deadly, upon the floor within easy reach of his hand, and selecting the largest, opened the door with a jerk and hurled it full upon the enemy.

A WONDERFUL ESCAPE

There was a flash, a blinding explosion, yells of pain, and the men fell back. Some of their number had been blown to pieces instantly; others were horribly mangled, but still alive. Decidedly hostilities would have to be postponed for a few moments while the wounded were carried to a place some distance away out of the fighting radius. As luck would have it—or shall we say Fate—George had miraculously escaped unharmed in the throwing of the bomb. He had seen the door open and had swerved aside just in time to dodge the consequences. As it was, he was on the outside planning the next attack, while Hardy, on the inside at bay, and therefore all the more dangerous, had time for a little planning on his own score.

Going to the fireplace, he drew out the dispatches from an inner pocket, carefully burned every paper separately and threw the charred remains on the hearth. Then he straightened himself, and, with his bombs in readiness, waited, with a grim smile curving his lips, for the next move of the enemy.

Little Bobbie's Pa

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

LAST nite Pa brought a frend hoam with him from the club, & sed wen he caim into the door Here, Oliver, here is my hoam, my all, my life. Wife, sed Pa, meet Mister Oliver Doolittel, the best fellow that evver lived & a frend that I think the wurld of. Mister Doolittel, this is my beeloved wife & this is my littel son Bobbie.

I am charmed, charmed, sed Mister Doolittel. How sweet it is to have a hoam & peepul to love you. You are a remarkably lucky man, sed Pa's frend. If I had a hoam & family like this I wuddent trade places with the King of England.

I wuddent trade places with him anyway, sed Pa, with all this Ulster trubbel to keep him awake, but I am glad you like my little fleet. I was telling Oliver, wife, sed Pa, that the club & outside life dident have any charms for me. This is my castle and here I spend my every spare minnit.

& so wud I if I had such a hoam, sed Oliver Doolittel. I wud resine from every club to wich I beelong to, he sed, & wonder how I was evver satisfied to be a baghelor.

I am afrade my deer husband is exaggerating a bit wen he says that he spends all his time here or at his bizness, sed Ma. But I supoas he is as deevoted to his hoam as the average gentleman of his circle. Ma was a little cold beekaus Pa haddent been hoam very erly the last three nites.

I have often dreemed that I wud like to have jest such a hoam as this, sed Oliver Doolittel. What a fine view you have here, he sed, & what a fine sideboard. He was looking into the library wen he sed it, so Pa took him in to show him his books & the sideboard. Thay was gone quite a while & wen thay caim out Pa's frend looked vary happy. Yes indeed, he kep saying, this is a butiful hoam & after all, he sed, hoam is whare the heart is & the sideboard. You look like a vary brite littel boy, he sed to me. Can you tell me who discovered the Pacific Oshun?

I think his naim was Balboa, I sed.

I guess he is right, sed Oliver Doolittel. I never knew myself that anybody discovered it, he sed, but he is such a brite looking littel feller that I am sure he must be rite. & how butiful yure wife looks, he sed. I was engaged to jest such a butiful gurl onst, he sed, but sumbody toaled her that I liked my cold tea & wen I proposed to her she gave me the gate. It broak my hart, he sed, & since then I have never wed or asked anybody to wed. My dreem of love was shattered, he sed, & now I am a lonely man, all alone & lonesome in my loneliness, sed Oliver Doolittel.

Doant you think you cud have given up yure cold tea, as you call it, to win the love of a butiful gurl? sed Ma.

I suppoas I cud have, he sed, but thay was making vary good whiskey in those days & a man knew what he was drinking. Still, I suppoas I cud have stopped had I used my iron will, but I nevver used it, then or since.

Then I am afrade that you haven't got any iron will to use, sed Ma. You are a good deal like most of my deer husband's frends. You think moar of the imaginary pleshurs of life than of the real pleshurs.

After Oliver Doolittle had went hoam Pa sed to Ma, Didn't you talk pretty plain to him? I feel sorry for him.

So do I, sed Ma. He is so unselfish, so self denying. Whoever the gurl was, sed Ma, she used good hedwork wen she sed No.

An "Association of Neglected Wives" has been formed at Schoenebeck, on the Elbe, to establish a time-limit for husbands' visits to beerhouses and cafes. If necessary the wives will form a militia to remove all husbands found on the premises after 11 p. m.

FEARFUL HUMOR COVERED FACE—RESINOL CURED

Itchy, Covered With Pimples and Most Unsightly, Instantly Relieved.

Paterson, N. J., Dec. 9, 1913.—"About a year ago my face began to crack and get scaly in blotches. It soon got worse and my face was all spotted and rough, and it itched me very much at night and caused me no end of discomfort. After a month or so pimples and blackheads began to show, first in small numbers and then gradually covering my entire face. It was awful. The pimples were sore and the rash was itchy and my face had a most unsightly appearance. I tried different kinds of soaps, creams and massages and also a strict diet, but I could get no relief. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment caused me instant relief. By the time another jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap were gone, I can truthfully say that it was a complete cure. My face had assumed its former color and looks, due to Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. They are, I think, the best for any skin trouble." (Signed) Robert Troyano, 269 E. 21st St.

Resinol Soap and Ointment heal eczema and other skin eruptions, stop itching instantly, and are most valuable for pimples, dandruff, sores, burns, boils, piles, etc. For trial size, free, write to Resinol, Dept. 8-R, Baltimore, Md. Thin People Can Increase Weight

Thin men and women who would like to increase their weight with 10 or 15 pounds of healthy "stay there" fat should try eating a little Sargol with their meals for a while and note results. Here is a good test worth trying. First, weigh yourself and measure yourself. Then take Sargol—one tablet with every meal—for two weeks. Then weigh and measure again. It isn't a question of how you look or feel or what your friends say and think. The scales and the tape measure will tell their own story, and most any thin man or woman can easily add from five to eight pounds in the first fourteen days by following this simple direction. And, best of all, the new flesh stays put.

Sargol does not of itself make fat, but mixing with your food, it turns the fats, sugars and starches of what you have eaten into rich, ripe fat producing nourishment for the tissues and blood—ready in an easily assimilated form, which the blood can readily accept. All this nourishment now passes from your body as waste. But Sargol stops the waste and does it quickly and makes the fat producing contents of the very same meals you are eating now develop pounds and pounds of healthy flesh between your skin and bones. Sargol is safe, pleasant, efficient and inexpensive.

Druggists sell it in large boxes—forty tablets to a package—on a guarantee of weight increase or money back. ADVERTISEMENT.

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were weak early in the afternoon, but were above their low for the day, having rallied somewhat since morning. Among declines in since morning. Among declines in New York were Canadian Pacific 1⅝, Southern Pacific 1⅛, Missouri Pacific ⅛, Reading ⅜, Lehigh Valley ⅝, New Haven ½, American Telephone ⅝, Steel ⅝, Amalgamated, ex-dividend, 1⅛, American Smelting 1, Northern Pacific ⅝, Baltimore & Ohio ⅝, Union Pacific 1, and Mexican Petroleum 3⅞. American Can was ⅛ higher.

In Boston United States Smelting common had advanced ⅛, and preferred 2¼, and Granby was up ⅝, while among mines to show losses were Green-Cananea 1¼, Superior ½, Calumet & Arizona 1, North Butte 1, Osceola 1 and Mohawk 1. Boston & Maine was up ½ and New Haven off ½, while United Fruit had declined 2.

NEW YORK OPENED WEAK.

Prices were lower in New York when the market opened, the trend being shaped by a continuation of selling of American stocks by Europeans. Americans were much weaker in London, where issues to show the most loss included Amalgamated, Atchison, Erie preferred, Ontario & Western, Reading, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific and Steel. Canadian Pacific was the weakest of abroad internationals. It was heavily sold in London on Continental orders—one cablegram read:

"The London stock exchange was demoralized by dispatches bearing upon the United States-Mexican situation. Dealings in Americans were excited and this group fell below New York parity. Consols declined ½ point and Mexican Railway Company shares were off from two to six points. Brazilian tractions slumped three points and Canadian Pacific was caught in the general decline, declining four and touching the lowest price it has sold since it has paid a 10 per cent. dividend."

WAR HAS MORE EFFECT.

The war with Mexico had more effect upon stocks in New York today, traders being impressed by the seriousness of the situation and disquieting rumors from Europe, where there is vague fear that another conflict may start before long on the Continent. Russia and France are reaching out for all available gold, which has had some influence upon the foreign monetary situation. Germany has been piling up yellow metal reserves for months. Foreign exchanges rates are around a point which would justify exporting gold from New York. Wall Street heard a rumor that Parisian bankers are to take $2,000,000 or more in gold from New York next week. There was alarm over the illness of Emperor Franz Joseph, it having long been feared that his death would cause a dissolution of the Austro-Hungarian empire and perhaps a great war.

BEARS ATTACK STEEL.

Certain interests resumed their attack upon steel and it was offered in good sized blocks. It sold at the lowest price it has touched in a long while, but showed, as usual of late, stubbornness on the decline. Prices, taking the list as a whole continued to ease off during the first hour and were around their lowest at the end of that period. Several stock sold at the lowest for months. Among them were a number representing large American investments in Mexico. Mexican Petroleum sagged about five points, American Smelting declined more than two and Southern Pacific fared as badly as the mining issue.

MONEY RATES MAY ADVANCE.

Banking interests expect that money rates will advance before long, especially as it now seems as if the war might be of considerably duration. It is denied that they have been asked to make no gold shipments to Europe while the situation remains at all critical. Time money is firmer in New York and rates would probably advance sharply, if demand was greater. As the trade of the country is at a low ebb, the money market is less affected than might be expected in war times. Call money was continued to be quoted at 1¾ per cent. there.

Many observers were of the opinion that bears were now enjoying their best opportunity for raiding and that within a few days there should be a rally. Less was said about bear selling in London to influence New York. Liquidation by foreigners is too heavy and extended to require any stimulation from this side. Trading sentiment was more bearing today than at any time since the United States made its first invasion move.

The market was quieter at midday, but transactions during the first hour amounted to nearly 215,000 shares and the total for the morning was almost 323,600.

COPPERS DOWN IN BOSTON.

Copper issues continued to recede in the Boston market which had more breadth and activity than has been the rule of late. The metal trade reports that about all business is being done at price concessions by small dealers, who are glad to get 14⅜ cents a pound for electrolytic. Among copper issues to weaken the most locally were Allouez, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range, Greene-Cananea, Lake, Mohawk, North Butte, Osceola and Ray Consolidated. United Fruit sold off more than two points. Local railroads and industrials were rather quiet.

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Wall Street hears vague rumors that if the business of the Adams Express Company does not improve enough this year to prevent further dissipation of assets that it will follow the example of the United States Express Company and liquidate.

On April 15 the total number of freight cars lying idle on side tracks was 212,868, an increase of 73,357 compared with April 1.

The Utah Copper Company's operating revenues increased $2,451,611 last year and its earnings were equal to $5.37 a share, compared with $5.35 in 1912. Surplus decreased $461,842.

The London copper warrants market was weak today, spot being off 12s. 6d. and futures 15s. at noon.

Copper exports for the week ended yesterday totalled 7,001 tons.

It is estimated that May dividend and interest disbursements in Boston and vicinity will amount to nearly $7,000,000, compared with $9,950,000 a year ago. For the country May disbursements are estimated at $114,700,000.

FORBES POINTS OUT EFFECT OF WAR ON MONEY

By B. C. Forbes, Business Editor.

The inferior must, in time, give way to the superior.

The universal trend today is toward large units.

The first shot of a war is as the striking of a match to start a fire whose bounds cannot be foretold.

These three reflections may be pondered by all financial and business men seeking to analyze the outlook with a view to adjusting their course to suit the probable circumstances.

No man can tell what a day may bring forth. All comments at this stage, therefore, are tendered on a G. T. C. basis—"good till cancelled." What is said this morning may have to be recalled tomorrow morning or the morning after.

* * *

Every man interested in finance, in industry, in commerce, in agriculture, in labor, is eagerly trying to reach intelligent conclusions as to how events are likely to shape themselves in Mexico, for war or peace can make all the difference in the world to most forms of acticity. Let us, accordingly, face the facts, let us weigh probabilities rather than indulge in futile sentimentality.

* * *

Having regard to the world's trend in every field, having regard to history, having regard to biology and anthropology, having regard to every pertinent circumstance, the chances at the moment would seem to me to warrant the following reading of the kaleidoscope:

1—All factions in Mexico will likely combine to fight the common enemy, the United States.

2—The United States, however reluctantly, would then have to face the gigantic task of subduing the whole Mexican population.

3—The struggle, inevitably, would early degenerate into guerilla warfare.

4—Subjugation—though now generally repugnant—in that case doubtless would be found necessary.

5—Such a campaign would prove one of the bloodiest in history and would last several years.

6—Americans, the superior Saxon breed, would thereafter hold sway over the Mexicans the inferior mixed breed, it having been ordained that the unfit must in the course of evolution give place to the fit.

* * *

Please note that these prognostications are based on the assumption that President Wilson, no matter how poignantly painful to him, will find himself compelled to meet Mexico's united armies. Everything at this moment suggests such a development.

* * *

The finger of destiny would seem to point to the ultimate absorption of many minor, backward nations by the larger, stronger ones, just as in the economic world the current runs strongly toward the obliteration of puny units by more powerful ones. Mexico has not demonstrated her ability to govern herself in accordance with twentieth century—or even nineteenth century—standards, and while we may grievously lament need for interfering with the affairs of any independent nation, yet there are inexorable laws that transcend all political considerations. It looks as if Mexico's hour had struck.

To leave possibilities and turn to actualities, I may state that the more powerful financial interests in New York are acting with great caution. They are not accumulating large quantities of stocks. Rather, they are waiting. That the stock market did not become demoralized on the outbreak of American bloodshed in Mexico is due mainly to the fact that financial leaders, with clearer vision than President Wilson, had expected and prepared for just such eventualities.

Fortunately, the war finds the financial markets free of inflation and free of wild speculations. Liquidation, both from foreign and home sources, has been thorough.

* * *

The country's industries, too, are on bedrock, not on an inflated basis.

Then the supply of liquid money is abundant—and the new currency system can be put in working order in time to take care of a protracted war.

* * *

When all has been said, however, war cannot be pictured as the foundation for any boom, financial or industrial. We will be extremely fortunate if it does not have a violently opposite effect, at least stockmarketwise.

HOLD UP THE AMERICAN FLAG!

Go to the Great Public Meeting on The Common Tonight to Stand by the Flag and Our Country in the Desperate Situation That Now Exists in Mexico

The Boston AMERICAN'S suggestion of a great public meeting to be held on the Common tonight has been adopted. This meeting is for the purpose of emphasizing the Nation's stand in Mexico, for upholding our beloved flag and standing by our brave men who are in Mexico, and others who will soon be there to defend the flag, and to give backing and encouragement to those in authority whose duty it is to carry on the great struggle upon which we are entering.

Massachusetts, always loyal and patriotic, will do its full duty in raising volunteers when the call comes from Washington for men to go to the front. This Commonwealth will not be behind any State in the Union in its eagerness to take up arms and to defend the flag at whatever cost when the word comes for Massachusetts to send its fighting men to Mexico.

Stand by the Flag! Go to the great meeting on the Common tonight! There will be patriotic music and patriotic speeches by eminent speakers.

Carranza's Rebuff Ends the Ill-Advised Effort to Ally Our Nation With Murderers

Carranza's defiant note in answer to Bryan's message of amity and implied proffer of aid is a most fortunate incident in the development of our policy toward Mexico.

It must make it apparent to everybody, even including the President, that at this moment the United States is making war upon Mexico, and that the contest is not a mere personal quarrel.

Without intending it, Carranza checked our government on the very verge of committing a disastrous blunder. It may be mortifying to the authorities to have their overtures rejected by the chief of a faction of Mexican outlaws, but it is better far than that such an alliance should have been actually consummated with the leaders of armed bands of robbers and murderers.

It is unfortunate that during the period of our trafficking with Carranza and Villa they were given opportunity to arm their followers with modern weapons purchased in the United States. This was stopped yesterday on the time-honored principle of locking the door after the theft. While the policy of encouraging Carranza and Villa was in effect they purchased, it is estimated, rifles and cartridges enough to supply their armies for a year. The weapons used by them to murder Americans in time of peace will now be employed in fighting our soldiers in time of war. If Carranza's defiance had done us no other service it was most advantageous in putting an abrupt end to this mistaken policy.

If we are invading Mexico for the purpose of protecting the lives and persons of American citizens we cannot stay out of the territory controlled by these two savage leaders. Furthermore, it is likely that they will attempt to enter our territory. But if we enter their territory or they enter ours, we shall find ourselves fought by them with machine guns and modern rifles bought for that purpose from manufacturers in the United States.

Could there be a more shortsighted policy than one which would thus permit the arming of an enemy?

But it is urged that we are at present in Mexico merely to avenge an insult to the flag, a defiance of our national authority.

That is but a slight reason in comparison with the murders of more than 150 of our men, and the violation of American women.

Has not Villa flouted the authority of the United States even more insolently than did Huerta?

When the Secretary of State, Mr. Bryan, sought explanations of the killing of the Englishman, Benton, in Villa's camp the bandit chief responded insolently that Benton was an Englishman and his explanations would be made to England, not to the United States.

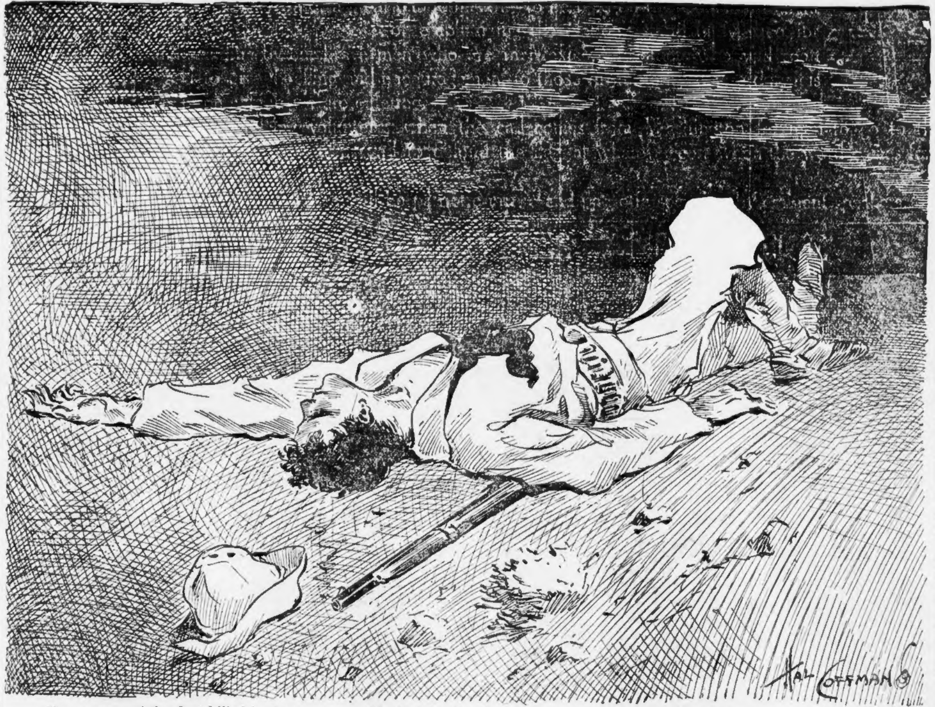
When several hundred Spaniards were expelled from the territory controlled by the Constitutionalists the protest of the United States was arrogantly waved aside, though Spain had entrusted this nation with the protection of her citizens in Mexico.

With the air thus cleared, with the dissipation of the idea that we are in Mexico to fight one band of cutthroats, and to ally ourselves with bandits of a different brand, with the plain fact recognized that we have entered upon a war and not a mere punitive expedition, the United States can proceed calmly and with determination to discharge the task it has undertaken in Mexico.

That task is to restore order by the suppression of warring factions, whatever their respective claims to power and authority; to establish on the firm foundation of a thoroughly pacified Mexico such a government as best fits the conditions of the country and the character of its people; and to do all with American men and American methods with the one purpose of establishing peaceful and progressive civilization where today are only bloody warfare, anarchy and chaos.

In doing righteousness alliance with the forces of evil is impossible. To have attempted our work in Mexico in association with Villa would have been to throw just suspicion upon our purposes. It is regrettable that such an alliance was sought; it is the supremest good fortune that Carranza himself repulsed our overtures.

FOR THE UNITED STATES---AND JUSTICE



He was one of the first killed in the new war. He died for the United States—and gladly. He died to make this country nobler and to share in the duty of his nation. He did not die to put Villa or Carranza in the place of Huerta, BUT FOR THE AMERICAN FLAG.

The Two Sisters

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

CHAPTER LV.

CARYL MARVIN was at the place suggested by Ben Hadley some minutes before he appeared. Standing in the gateway, the girl watched for him, a frown of impatience on her forehead. It was already 4 o'clock. She did not want to place herself in a position where Julia could question her as to her whereabouts this afternoon, therefore she must be back in her room before her sister returned from work. Yet she hated to miss a moment of pleasure with Hadley.

"Why stand looking in exactly the opposite direction from that in which I might be expected to come?" asked a gay voice behind her, and all shadow vanished from the girl's face as she turned and greeted the new arrival.

"I wasn't even thinking of you just then," she averred.

"What were you thinking of?" he asked, laying his hand on her arm and leading her into the garden. We'll walk for a little way and then take the car down to a certain tea room I have in mind—so you can tell me now what you were daring to think of while I was hurrying toward you with all my thoughts flying in your direction."

The girl laughed, then sighed. "Oh, well," she replied, "if you insist on knowing, I was thinking of my sister."

"What about her?"

"Why—I was wondering what I was to tell her when she asks me the name of the person who took me out last night. For she will ask it, of course."

"She doesn't know yet?" the man queried quickly.

Caryl shook her head. "Oh, no—I didn't tell her." There was a moment's silence. "She thinks my employer is just about right," she observed with apparent irrelevance.

"Oh,—she does, does she?" the man remarked, with a knowing smile. "I see!"

Even Caryl had the grace to feel vaguely uncomfortable at the implication conveyed in his tone.

"Oh," she hastened to explain, "I do not mean that he has paid her any especial attention,—only he happens to be the one man she knows in Boston, and he has talked a lot of fatherly things to me,—at least he has tried to,—about following my sister's advice,—and I suppose Julia thinks that so long as I am with him, and no other man, I am safe."

She paused. "I hope you are," Hadley muttered.

"I'm safe anywhere," Caryl declared with dignity. "I'm no child, remember, though my sister thinks I am. She worries so much about me that I actually allowed her to believe that I was out last night with some man and his sister. She got the notion that I had met these people through Mr. Somerdyke or Mr. Delaine, and that they were people Mr. Delaine would approve of."

The tea-room to which they went when they left the car was a tiny place, and there were few people there. Hadley did not suggest that they have any drink stronger than tea. He knew that he could not procure liquor in this establishment, and was glad that this was so, for he wanted to talk to his companion when her mind was unclouded and calm. He must ascertain just what she had led her sister to believe.

Caryl gave him the desired information glibly. But she did not confess to him that the story with which Julia had been duped had been a deliberate falsehood. This Ben Hadley already suspected, and he was shrewd enough to appreciate that a girl who had such a vivid imagination and so little regard for the truth as had Caryl Marvin would be easily influenced by anyone who could appeal to her love of luxury and to her insatiate vanity. Knowing this, he did not hesitate to fall in with her scheme for hoodwinking her sister and Delaine.

"The trouble of it is," regretted the girl, "I don't know the names of any of Mr. Somerdyke's friends—and Julia has the notion that the people my employer knew about. As long as the dear girl thinks that, she will not worry when"—she stopped, and Hadley gazed at her expectantly.

The man leaned across the little table, and, as there was nobody near enough to see his action, took the girl's hands in both of his hands. She did not resist.

"'If I should ask you!" he exclaimed. "Don't you know I will ask you every chance I get?"

Caryl dropped her eyes. "I almost hope you will," she confessed.

Still he held her hands. "Since I want you just as often as you will honor me by meeting me, won't you say that you hope I will ask you, instead of that you almost hope so?" he urged.

Caryl lifted her eyes and gazed at him steadily before speaking. Then she drew a long breath of happiness.

"I hope so!" she said softly.

Questions Answered

T. F. M.—Evidently you are simply repeating something that you have heard. Between socialism and anarchy there is no philosophic or practical connection or kinship whatever. The two thought-systems are as separate as it is possible for two things to be. Socialists claim that if their creed was adopted all would be peace and happiness, the peace of universal orderly activity and the happiness that is born of universal justice and fair play—a situation in which there would be no room for, or desire of, any sort of violence.

F. G. M.—The famous building known as the "Capitol," the ruins of which have attracted so many tourists, was begun by Tarquinus Priscus, B. C. 616, and completed by Tarquinus Superbus about B. C. 505. It was destroyed by fire (of lightning) B. C. 183, and rebuilt by Sylla and dedicated by Catallus in 69. The wonderful edifice was practically destroyed by Genseric, A. D. 455. Any reputable Classical Dictionary will give you a description of the Capitol as it was and as it is, in its ruins.

Love Sickness—"A Purely Imaginary Disease"

By DOROTHY DIX

A CORRESPONDENT asks for a good, reliable remedy for a broken heart.

She says that she is in love with a man who used to be in love with her, but who has gotten tired of her, and is trying to get rid of her. She tells of the weary hours she spends waiting for him to come to see her, and that when he doesn't she rings him up on the telephone and sobs in the receiver until she clogs it up, asking him how he can be so cruel to her; that she writes him long, wailing letters of reproach that he doesn't even answer, and that she goes to his office to see him, although she knows that he would shut the door in her face if he dared.

In my opinion any woman that can continue to love a man who has ceased to care for her, and who neglects and insults her, has got something wrong with her mind. She's dotty, and instead of following the man around, begging for a caress or a kind word as a dog begs for a bone, she should go to an alienist and get him to put her into a sanitarium where she would be safe from making a spectacle of herself, and could be treated for her affliction.

She's the victim of a hallucination, and the sooner she is made to realize that the man that she thinks is a Prince Charming and a little tin god and a concentration of all that is romantic and fascinating is merely a creature of her fancy, and that the real man is just a mean, little, selfish, egotistical human shrimp, the sooner she will be restored to sanity.

My first piece of advice to the lovesick lady is to take a good square look at the man upon whom she is squandering her affections and try to see him as he really is, instead of through the rosy draping of her imagination. That of itself ought to work a complete and lasting cure. My second piece of advice, in case the first remedy isn't sufficient, is to cease to dwell upon the thought of her blighted love.

My third piece of advice to the lovelorn lady is to get busy. Broken hearts are a complaint peculiar to women. You never hear of a man suffering from one, and the reason is that a man who has to make a living has got so many real tribulations that he hasn't got the time to manufacture imaginary troubles. Nor do you ever hear of business women suffering from heartaches. That's a trouble that, like housemaid's knee, is confined to the domestic woman.

It's the woman who has little to occupy her mind who has the leisure to cultivate a nice, painful set of emotions that throb night and day until they drive her into hysteria. Therefore, sister, if you've got any heart trouble, whether it's about your husband or some other man, get to work. Fill your days with labor that is so absorbing that it doesn't give you a minute in which to think of anything else, and that leaves you so tired at night that you are glad to go to bed and go to sleep. Just try to realize that love is no more all of a woman's life than it is of a man's life, and that there are ten million other things to be enjoyed in the world besides sentiment.

My fourth piece of advice, and this is a sovereign cure, is to transfer your affections. There is no such remedy for a hopeless passion as to fall in love with somebody else. After all love is nothing but a royal garment that we manufacture ourselves, and that we fit on somebody, and why not bestow it on the one who will appreciate it and wear it grandly, instead of on the one on whom it is a misfit, and who drags it in the dust and kicks it about?

After all, love-sickness is a purely imaginary disease, and when we cease to think that we are afflicted with it our recovery is complete. It is an automatic cure.
